RALPH

McGILL

With Ear to Patient's Chest

A diagnostician, putting his ear to the hairy chest of the South, can hear enough murmurs, burblings, wheezes and croakings to come up with a fairly confident political prognosis.

In the first place, the basic question no longer is whether the South, after a great surge for Gen. Eisenhower in 1952, will return "for good" to the Democratic Party in 1956, a sadder but wiser prodigal son.

As of now the answer to that question is, "Yes, it will return to what the party leaders refer to as the 'house of our fathers.' But it will not be 'to stay.' The prodigal will return sadder, perhaps wiser, but will sign no long-tenure lease."

Basic

The basic fact about Southern political leadership in the Deep South is that for a long and undetermined period it is going to be something like that ancient story of the shipwrecked Irishman who drifted to the shores of a land unknown to him.

"Is there a government here?" he asked, as helpful natives assisted him to drier earth.

"There is," they said.

"I'm agin it," he said.

That's what it's going to be like in the Deep South for some time to come, insofar as the present articulate leadership, stirred by the Supreme Court decision on segregation and touchy over what it inordinately feels to be "interference" in general, is concerned.

This leadership did not like "that man" in the White House in the latter years of Franklin D. Roosevelt's administration.

It even more rabidly disliked "that man" in the White House when the occupant was Harry S. Truman.

Within a few months after Dwight D. Eisenhower was "that man in the White House," the Deep-South political leadership was in full cry against him. Appointment of former Gov. Earl Warren to be the Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court was denounced by the more demagogic as a plot against the South's segregation traditions. When the Georgia state Democratic convention was held in September to confirm the primary results, the condemnation of President Eisenhower as an enemy of the South was more bitter, crude and rude than that formerly reserved for FDR and HST.

More than ever before, this particular leadership will demand of the court and the party that they each show proper "respect" and make compromises, while the leadership itself swears it will make no compromise whatever.

In Texas, Gov. Allen Shivers, while still protesting he is a Democrat, frankly advocates a policy which would destroy the two-party system if carried to its ultimate conclusion. (His plan is nominally that of Gov. James Byrnes of South Carolina). Gov. Shivers demanded the South play a "balance of power" role in each presidential election, abandoning any party affiliation, and bargaining with each for the best offer.

Chaos

If one region can do it, so can others. And if this should come to be the political formula in America, then the two-party system would go down the drain and regional politics would be substituted for national politics. That this would soon reduce itself to chaos and irreparably weaken the nation is beyond dispute.

Our time seems to be one when a great many political leaders are thinking not in terms of being Americans, but in terms of a state or a region. This is nothing new in American politics. Old political ghosts walk a long time as do old historical ghosts. Sometimes, to be sure, they are twins.

But history also shows that such thinking, and such action, when carried from the field of threat to deed, has resulted either in disaster or dead-end stagnation of government and deterioration of those caught in it.

The question, which only the future can answer, is whether or not we can afford the luxury of substituting state or regional welfare for the national. In times past we have been able so to do. But never before in all our history have we been placed in such a position as now—with what is free in the world face to face with a powerful tyranny. And so, the question can't be answered save in the years — or generations ahead. Presently the answer seems to be "we can't afford it."

Methodist Clergy Urges Defeat of School Proposal

By M. L. ST. JOHN

The Methodist Ministers Association of Greater Atlanta Monday declared the proposed "private school amendment" will destroy Georgia's public school system "without solving the problem it is proposihg to solve."

Seventy-five ministers voted unanimously for a resolution urging defeat of the amendment in the Nov. 2 general election.

Other developments in the battle over Constitutional Amendment No. 4 included:

1. E. T. Methvin of Eastman, past president of the Georgia Press Assn. and member of the Georgia Committee to Save Our Schools, warned that passage of the amendment could mean the loss of county agents' and home demonstration agents' work throughout the state.

2. State School Supt. M. D. Collins told 800 teachers at Macon that the state's present ban on mixing races in the schools is sufficient to maintain segregation.

3. Gov.-Nominate Marvin Griffin warned he will close schools and dismiss teachers without pay or retirement benefits if the amendment fails and the courts order Georgia schools mixed.

4. James Peters of Manchester, vice-chairman of the State Board of Education, warned school leaders to stop feuding with the governor if they expect to keep on getting high appropriations for education.

DEBATE

5. State Democratic Chairman John Sammons Bell said "The Committee to ave Our Schools" should be called "The Committee to End Segregation in Georgia Schools."

A debate between Fulton Rep. Hamilton Lokey and Bell will feature Tuesday's dispute over the proposed amendment. It will take place at 8 p.m. at the E. Rivers PTA meeting.

The ministers said that while the amendment is only permissive, its passage "would be interpreted as approval of an idea which we deem to be radical, revolutionary and destructive of a precious heritage, and of the welfare of our children, youth and adults." They said the amendment will create very serious problems, rather than solve any.

FACULTY MEMBERS

Methvin said the Extension Service of the University of Georgia will be ended if the university becomes a private school. The county agents are members of the university faculty, but they are paid largely from federal grants which would not be available to private schools. Loss of the agricultural agents would be the first step in what Chancellor Harmon Caldwell described as the "disintegration" of the Univeristy System, Methvin commented.

Supt. Collins quoted "able consttutional lawyers" as stating the law now on the books to withhold funds from school systems which integrate the races would make it possible to main-

Miss America of 1954 Seeks Wedding License

LANCASTER, Pa., Oct. 18 (AP)—Miss Evelyn Ay of nearby Ephrata, Miss America of 1954, applied for a marriage license in the Lancaster County Courthouse today.

She will be married to Ensign Carl Sempier Jr., U.S. Navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Sempier, of Montclair, N.J.

Miss Ay appeared at the courthouse alone. Sempier filled out his application at the air base in Corpus Christi, Texas.

APPETIZING WORK—LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 18. Fifteen-month-old Susanne Jane Fleischman had to have a social security card when she went to work doing a bit part in a commercial movie. Handed the card Monday, she tried to eat it. Susanne is the youngest wage-earner ever to get a social security card in the Louisville area.

40,000 Auto Owners Warned by Tax Office

The office of Fulton Tax Commissioner T. Earl Suttles Monday warned 40,000 automobile owners who failed to pay their 1954 taxes that unless the taxes are paid, their autos will be seized and sold for taxes at public auctions.

A tax official said tax bills on automobiles which were not reported for taxes this year are being sent out in the next few days, and that if taxes are not paid promptly in response to the bills, the autos would be seized.

Picture of car auction, Page Six.

The officials declared that "this collection is going to be pushed to the limit in fairness to the majority of taxpayers who make voluntary returns on their automobiles." He said the county "cannot longer afford to let those who do not make tax returns on their autos get by without paying their fair share of taxes."

The bills will be made up from the state's list of Fulton County residents who purchased automobile license plates. The list is checked against tax rolls to see if taxes have been paid.

Tax officials, who issued their warning as several automobiles were auctioned off Monday at the courthouse because the owners failed to pay state and county taxes, pointed out that delinquent taxpayers may prevent their having to pay additional penalties by making voluntary returns before the tax bills arrive.

Young Howell, an official with the county's back-tax office, said about $250,000 in back taxes is involved.

Football Fan Wouldn't Lift Hat For Anthem, Patrolman Charges

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 18 (AP)—A young football fan was accused today of refusing to take off his hat when the national anthem was played and was held for grand jury action on charges of desecration of the flag and resisting arrest.

But King Blackwell, 23, contended that he was so intent on finding his seat at Forbes Field for the pro game between the Pittsburgh Steelers and the Cleveland Browns yesterday that he didn't realize the anthem was being played.

Rookie patrolman Alex Maxwell said at a police court hearing that he snatched the hat off Blackwell's head, but Blackwell "defied me and put it back on." The policeman said he arrested Blackwell because the crowd around him appeared to be getting restless and he feared there might be a disturbance.

Slightly Cooler Forecast Here

Fair and slightly cooler weather has been forecast for the Atlanta area Tuesday and Wednesday, with still no rain in sight, the Weather Bureau said Monday.

Tuesday's high will be 72 and Wednesday's 74 as compared with 79 Monday. Expected low Tuesday is 42 and Wednesday 45. Monday's low was 47.

Mendes Again Asks 'Safeguards'; U.S. Seen Ready To Compromise

PARIS, Oct. 18 (AP)—Authoritative sources said tonight on the eve of a German rearmament showdown that Premier Mendes-France had renewed an appeal to the United States for more and stronger controls to "safeguard" France from any possibility of aggression.

By EDWARD M. KORRY

Mendes-France urged the United States to back his already rejected scheme for a continental arms pool and a West European agency to dole out American aid as it sees fit, informants said.

They reported the Premier reopened the whole issue of arms control last week in a long talk with U.S. Ambassador C. Douglas Dillon.

Secretary of State Dulles turned down Mendes-France's request for an arms pool and the channeling of aid through a European agency at the London conference last month.

But now the situation was reported to have changed—sufficiently, at least, to prompt Mendes-France's renewal of his proposition.

Authoritative sources said an influential section of U.S. official thinking had recommended that Dulles reconsider his position. The sources intimated that Dulles might have yielded from his firm stand when he arrives Wednesday for the new round of consultations.

Tomorrow Mendes-France and Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany will tackle the problem of what to do about the Saar—a dispute which has been made a key issue in the German settlement.

The meeting kicks off a series of negotiations and consultations which Western leaders hoped to climax Saturday with final accords on the substitute for the dead European Defense Community.

The goal was admission of West Germany into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Brussels Treaty, restoration of sovereignty, and authorization of an army of 500,000 men.

Hazel Toll Rises to 176; Ohio Wanes

Debris Yields More Bodies

By the Associated Press

The death toll from Ontario's disastrous hurricane mounted sharply Monday as rescue workers lifted more bodies from the silt and debris. The known dead reached 78, with 18 more still missing.

The toll was likely to go even higher as the recovery of bodies moved casualties from the missing to the dead column.

Meanwhile, in the Ohio Valley, a flood crest continued downstream, but the threat to cities along the way appeared to be diminishing.

57 DROWN

Within a few miles of Toronto's downtown shopping area, the Humber River drowned at least 57 persons in the western suburbs. The latest compilation showed 13 more missing in this area.

Hurricane Hazel, which churned up out of the Caribbean last week and cut across the North American continent from the Carolinas to Hudson Bay, took a known death toll of 176 in Canada and the United States. American fatalities were 98.

Flood water trickled into the streets of Belpre, Ohio, and Parkersburg, W.Va., Monday as the crest of the rain-bloated Ohio River continued its southerly course.

THE DAMAGE

Its flood force apparently dying, the river which chased thousands of persons from their homes upriver during the weekend caused little damage with its latest overflow.

Belpre Chief of Police Earl W. Walker reported the crest reached 37.5 feet—about 1.5 feet above flood stage. But, he added, the water would have to hit a 40-foot level before anyone would be in danger there.

The river crested at 37.2 feet—a little over a foot higher than flood stage — at Parkersburg, across from Belpre and 85 miles downstream from Wheeling, W.Va. Several hours later it began falling.

NO MORE HARM

Authorities in downstream towns did not foresee further hardships and damage such as the river dealt the Pittsburgh-Wheeling areas during the weekend.

In the aftermath of the storm, worst in Toronto's history, 28 Canadians whose fate had been unknown since the torrential downpour and high winds struck Friday night were found to be safe.

Many relatives waited grim-faced to identify their dead at an emergency morgue set up in a fire station in Toronto's western suburbs, where the flooded Humber River wreaked the worst havoc.

Total storm damage has been estimated as high as 100 million dollars. A government inspector said today three million dollars worth of crops in the area will be utterly destroyed if flood water is not drained off within 10 days.

Wreck Kills Summerville Hitchhiker

Constitution State News Service

FORSYTH, Oct. 18—One hitchhiker was killed and another seriously injured Monday night when an automobile reported to have been stolen went out of control and overturned on U.S. Highway 41 near Bolingbroke, the State Patrol said.

The Griffin Patrol station said Franklin Homer Wilkey of Summerville in Chattooga County was killed, and Jimmy Adams of Rt. 2, Trion, was admitted to a Macon hospital in serious condition.

GBI Agent H. B. Bray listed James F. Harwood of Rt. 2, Canton, as the driver and said he was admitted to the Forsyth Clinic under police guard. Bray said Harwood also was believed to be seriously injured.

The automobile was reported stolen in McRae, Bray said, and the driver stoped south of Macon and gave rides to Mr. Wilkey and Adams. He added the auto, traveling north at a high rate of speed, went out of control a mile south of the Bolingbroke city limits, plunged from the road and overturned.

The wreck occurred at 9:10 p.m.

Stringfellow Shelved As Utah Republicans Accept Resignation

Salk Polio Shot Order Is 9 Million

By WILLIAM L. LAURENCE

New York Times News Service Special to The Atlanta Constitution

NEW YORK, Oct. 18—The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has contracted to purchase enough Salk polio vaccine to immunize nine million children and pregnant women next year.

Basil O'Connor, president of the foundation, who made the announcement at a luncheon at the Waldorf Astoria today, said the "foundation is taking a calculated risk in purchasing vaccine before it has been found effective."

REASON TO HOPE

However, he added, "we have every reason to hope and believe that the vaccine will be effective." The purchase, to cost about $9,000,000, he explained, will enable pharmaceutical manufacturers to retain specialized personnel and facilities and thus be prepared to produce promptly a substantial quantity of vaccine to be available through usual commercial channels.

Before the vaccine could be placed on the market, it was pointed out, it will have to be licensed by the Laaboratory of Biologies Control of the National Institute of Health, United States Public Health Service, Washington.

LARGEST OF KIND

The scientific evaluation to determine the effectiveness of the vaccine, said to be "the largest medical evaluation of its kind ever attempted," is now being carried out at the University of Michigan under direction of Dr. Thomas Francis Jr., world-famous epidemiologist. The results are not expected to be known until about April 1.

The vaccine purchased by the national foundation, O'Connor said, will be made available to all children who participated in the field trials this year and did not receive the vaccine, to pregnant women and to the children who will be in the first grade of school next year.

EARLY PROTECTION

He pointed out that if the vaccine is licensed these highly susceptible groups would be offered protection before the next polio season.

If the evaluation of the vaccine shows it to be effective in protecting against paralytic polio, O'Connor said, the six pharmaceutical houses producing the vaccine will have enough to vaccinate nine million additional persons, and could meet a demand to protect up to one-half of the 60 million of the age group up to 16 years.

TRIAL BEGINS

Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard

Sheppard's Trial Gets Under Way

By ARTHUR EVERETT

CLEVELAND, Oct. 18 (AP) — The first degree murder trial of Dr. Samuel Sheppard got under way today with the selection of the first juror. The trial judge refused a defense plea to delay the case.

The intense atmosphere that has surrounded the July 4 slaying of Sheppard's blonde, pregnant wife was highlighted by the first two jury prospects called.

Both men admitted their minds were made up on the case — although they didn't say which way. Both were dismissed automatically.

MAY TAKE WEEK

But the third prospect, Howard L. Barrish, a dark, serious man of 28 with an 11th-grade education, withstood an exhaustive examination by the state and finally was accepted. Then the trial recessed overnight. Attorneys estimated it may take a week to select a jury.

Barrish is married, childless and a timekeeper in Cleveland's Republic Steel Corp. The defense questioned him minutely for more than an hour and a half.

The defense was denied further delay in the case and at the same time a separate plea for a change of venue—taking the trial to another county — was held in abeyance.

INSISTS ON INNOCENCE

Sheppard, a handsome, athletic osteopath, is accused of bludgeoning his wife, Marilyn, to death after a romance with a pretty young medical technician, Susan Hayes. He has never backtracked in his plea of innocent.

Trial Judge Edward Blythin denied a fervent defense plea for a postponement of the case "until all this furor dies down."

Defense Atty. Edward J. Corrigan took the setback with apparent good grace.

"We'll acquit the fellow," he told a reporter. "He'll acquit himself."

Corrigan, a small, white-haired court veteran with a deceptive air of weariness about him, argued that widespread publicity has surrounded the case, prejudiced the

Apologizes To Party For Fiction

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 18 (AP). The Utah Republican Party tonight unanimously accepted the resignation of Douglas R. Stringfellow, self-confessed fake war hero, as Republican candidate for Congress.

The 125-member central committee did not immediately select a successor as nominee in the First Congressional District.

After the voting, Stringfellow made a personal appearance before the noisy committee session ot offer his personal apology for the admitted falsehoods about his war record that he said he realized jeopardized chances of the party.

"FOUND THE WAY"

"The decision you have made in accepting my resignation," said the 32-year-old paraplegic," is the only right decision you could have made."

Stringfellow said that he realized many party members wondered why "Stringfellow did not come clean sooner."

"I didn't have the courage, I didn't have the way," he declared as he wiped tears from his eyes.

"During a recent trip, on bended knee, I found the courage and the way."

He urged all-out campaigning for the Republican candidates and promised complete support of his successor.

After his emotional talk, Stringfellow, hobbling on a cane, took a seat at the front of the meeting.

TEARFUL STORY

Stringfellow did not offer to resign his present seat in the House of Representatives where, technically, he will serve until early January.

In a dramatic confession late Saturday, Stringfellow had admitted publicly to the fabrication of a story he had told from coast to coast of leading a daring parachute mission into Germany to capture a scientist and upset the Nazi A-bomb development.

In his tearful account of the "true facts," Stringfellow had offered to withdraw his candidacy for reelection. Today, he actually submitted his resignation and said he felt his state, party and "all concerned would be better served if this resignation is accepted."

DEMOCRATIC GLEE

He asked his friends and supporters in the 24-county, predominantly rural district to abide with his decision which he stressed came with "no pressure or duress."

The Democratic nominee in the district is Walter K. Granger, who served six terms before his defeat two years ago in a try for the Senate seat that was rewon by Republican Sen. Watkins, now chairman of the McCarthy Censure Committee.

Stringfellow, in his resignation statement, stressed that none of his staff members was aware of the "true story of my war record" but had "accepted my version completely, believing in me to the last."

QUIET-DOWN CRACKDOWN

Police Will Horn In On the Noisemakers

By KEELER McCARTNEY

Ruckus raisers, beware!

Or be prepared to face a municipal judge and explain the necessity of your sounding off an automobile horn, driving an auto without a proper muffler, or kicking up "any noise which either annoys, disturbs, injures or endangers the comfort, repose, health, peace or safety of others in the city."

The "quiet-down" crackdown came Monday as an order from Police Chief Herbert Jenkins. It grew out of an understanding between Jenkins and the noise abatement committee of the Women's Chamber of Commerce. The chamber proposed to conduct an enlarged anti-noise educational campaign this year provided the police would follow it up with more enforcement. The chief agreed.

For a month, the women and the policemen handed out blue warning tickets to horn-blowers, brake-squealers, hot-rodders and radio-blarers. They employed a highly sensitive recording device to determine the most noisy points in the city.

Now the educational part of the agreement has been completed. And, in keeping with his agreement, the police chief has instructed members of his department to begin handing out arrest tickets to all found raising an undue noise.

Dr. Bush Says Scientists Upset by Security Drive

New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18—Dr. Vannevar Bush, president of the Carnegie Institution, was on record today as warning a congressional subcommittee that the Eisenhower administration's security-risk program had demoralized the scientific community and hindered the nation's weapons research programs.

Testifying last June before a House government operations subcommittee that was looking into the organization and administration of military research and development, Dr. Bush said that President Eisenhower's executive order on loyalty and security "was poorly conceived, has been poorly interpreted, and has made the situation much worse than it was before." A transcript of the subcommittee hearings was made public tonight.

Dr. Bush, who headed the Office of Scientific Research and Development in World War II, did not discuss directly the Atomic Energy Commission's handling of security risk charges against Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer.

MUTUAL RESPECT

He appeared, however, to be describing the effects of the Oppenheimer case on fellow scientists in telling the subcommittee:

"There will be no refusal on the part of scientific men to respond when called upon. You won't find any strikes, or any such thing. But scientists today are discouraged and downhearted and feel that they are being pushed out, and they are."

The mutual respect between the military services and the scientific community achieved during World War II, he testified, has been "almost destroyed, and one of the primary reasons is the security system."

Although scientists were continuing to serve the military departments, their morale was so low that they were doing the job "without enthusiasm and without fruitful inspiration," Dr. Bush said.

QUESTION OF LOYALTY

"They go on working," he added, "but they feel that they are not welcome, that they are engaged with suspicion, that some of the men who ed them during the war are now being questioned and their security and loyalty are in doubt."

Dr. Bush also complained that the Joint Chiefs of Staff were not seeking or getting scientific advice in their national security planning and that the United States was "a year or two behind where we should be" in strengthening its continental defenses against air attack.

He said that no action had yet been taken on a recommendation, made last year by the Rockefeller Commission on Reorganization of the Defense department, that a planning committee of senior officers be set up at the level of the joint chiefs with the full-time task of investigating how modern weapons could be fitted into military planning.

STRATEGIC PLANNING

Questioned on this point today, the Defense department said that a directive had been issued last July 26, more than a month after Dr. Bush had testified. It instructed the joint chiefs to consult "from time to time as appropriate" with "competent civilian scientists, engineers and professional personnel" so that "a wide range of scientific information and knowledge of fundamental cost and industrial factors" would be contributed to their strategic and logistic planning.

The joint chiefs can give only part of their time to broad national planning, Dr. Bush said, because each member (except the chairman, Adm. Arthur Radford) is also the head of the service.

In the absence of a special group such as that suggested by the Rockefeller commission, he added, present planning is "not sufficiently flexible and vigorous" to make the most effective use of new weapons.

Another scientific witness, Dr. A. G. Hill, director of the Lincoln Laboratory at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, echoed Dr. Bush's statement that the country should be putting more effort into its continental defenses.

A WORLD-BEATER

Antigone Constanda

'Miss World' Title Won by Egypt Beauty

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON, Oct. 18 (AP)—Brown eyed Antigone Constanda, of Egypt—as full of curves as a scenic railway — tonight won the title of Miss World.

Karin Hultman

Beautiful Karin Hultman, of Rochester, N.Y., a model, came second.

"Gosh," said Karin, "I'm jinxed. I'm always second."

She was second in a Miss U.S.A. contest in California earlier this year.

She was the first to congratulate the gorgeous girl from Alexandria. And she did it with a big kiss on her right cheek.

Miss Egypt could hardly be called Little Egypt, for she weighs 132 pounds, her height is 5 feet 5 inches, her bust 36 inches and her hips, which she swung to the whistling delight of the Lyceum Theater audience, measure 36 inches also.

Her bathing suit was made of gold cloth and so thin that had Miss Egypt stooped to pick up a rose bud there's no telling what would have happened.

After the judges gave her the verdict she said, "I am very pleased. So happy."

Last year when another Miss Egypt failed to win the title she turned on Miss France—who did win—and delivered a classic remark, "I think she steenk."

Little Miss France, Claudine Bleuse, 17, who many spectators thought should have won, looked as if she were going to weep any moment.

Six girls received prizes and first honors called for $1,400.

Next 2 Weeks Decisive In Campaign, Nixon Says

By the Associated Press

Vice President Nixon said Monday the Nov. 2 congressional elections will be won or lost in these last two weeks of campaigning.

Emerging from the White House, where he spent almost an hour discussing the campaign with President Eisenhower, Nixon said the Republicans "have the election won—if we mobilize our strength."

Miss Case

He reported that his travels through 22 states in the past two weeks had convinced him the majority of the American people want a Congress which will support Eisenhower.

The problem, he said, is to transform this will into votes Nov. 2.

Today Nixon sets out on a 10-state tour which will wind up his 1954 campaigning.

He said he expected Eisenhower to make another appeal for the election of a Republican Congress in a speech Oct. 28, probably in the Washington area.

The White House confirmed that such a speech is under consideration. It also announced that the President will make half-hour "nonpartisan" talks at two New York functions this week.

Wednesday night the President will speak at New York ceremonies marking the 300th anniversary of the founding of the Jewish faith in America. The next evening he will address the Alfred E. Smith memorial dinner there. Smith, a longtime Democratic leader in New York State, headed his party's presidential ticket in 1928.

In Washington, James L. Murphy, chairman of the National Citizens for Eisenhower Congressional Committee, said that his organization is "enthusiastically supporting" Clifford P. Case as the Republican nominee for U. S. Senator in New Jersey.

Case went on TV Sunday to make a dramatic defense of his sister, Miss Adelaide Case, who had been linked to purported Communist front groups in a published report. He said the report apparently was based on a case of mistaken identity.

Tyrone Powers To Separate; Strife Over Careers Blamed

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 18 (AP)—Film Star Tyrone Power and his wife, Linda Christian, tonight announced they were separating because of incompatability over their careers.

The announcement was issued through 20th Century-Fox studios where Power has been under contract since 1936. In announcing their separation, the couple said they had no immediate plans for divorce.

The separation came as a surprise to Hollywood which listed Power and his wife as one of the film colony's most devoted couples.

The announcement, said Miss Christian, who had forsaken her film career when she and Power married Jan. 27, 1949, in Rome, would remain in Hollywood to pursue a screen career.

Power, on the other hand, is scheduled to leave this weekend for New York as soon as he completes his work in his starring role in "Untamed." In New York he is scheduled to start rehearsals with famed stage star Katherine Cornell for Christopher Fry's "The Dark Is Light Enough."

Power and his wife are the parents of two children, Romina Francesca, 3, and Taryn, 2. The children will remain with Miss Christian, the couple said.

Power formerly was married to French actress Annabella while it was the first marriage for Miss Christian, a redhaired, green-eyed beauty who was reared in Mexico although of European descent.

Reds Active at North Pole—Moscow

LONDON, Oct. 18 (AP)—Moscow Radio announced today that a Communist Party organization has been set up at the North Pole.

Members of the Soviet research station, the broadcast said, have been asked what additional literature they need to continue their studies of Marxism and Leninism.

The broadcast said the Soviet researchers at "North Pole Three are drifting on an ice floe in the Arctic."

British Bus Strikers Head Back to Work

LONDON, Oct. 18 (AP)—Britain's broke out late today. Fist fights and bitter taunts exploded at a meeting at which union delegates voted to recommend that the busmen go back to their jobs Wednesday.

The paralyzing dock strike threatened tonight to spread to Manchester, but moderate union leaders started a back-to-work movement in the bus walkout crippling the London transport system.

The first violence of the nation's worst strike wave in 28 years

Another dent was made in the dock strike which had paralyzed or staggered the ports of London, Liverpool and Birkenhead. Thousands of dockers streamed back to the Liverpool waterfront, defying their red-prompted strike leaders.

Moderate union leaders were fighting a bitter battle of loyalties to keep the left wingers from closing the port of Liverpool. Officials said it was touch and go.

Today on Peachtree

That's our boy!

United Nations Week always makes us mighty proud that our country's in there pitching on a team that aims to make the whole world the winner. But this week, the way we're preening, you'd think it was our own private celebration with President Eelco N. Van Kleffens as our guest star. And all because we just discovered that Davisonite James K. Gussow, our fashion photographer par excellence, had a hand in photographing the dramatic posters that will spread the U. N. story all over the globe this week. Jim was a U. N. photographer for three years before he came South; he happened on his handiwork by chance the other day when he meandered by the U. N. booth on our mezzanine. Come see our Ellis Street window for a pocket-sized tour of the U. N. and a close-up of our boy's fabulous photography. But don't expect to find Jim there sneaking a look at his pictures; he'll be upstairs clicking away like mad on tomorrow's fashion ad.

Round-elay

The Atlanta poetess who from time to time invokes her Muse on behalf of "Today on Peachtree" just sent us a delicious bit which should hold comfort for all us amply upholstered gals. Here it is:

"I've never been a sweater girl,
I never shall be that;
Because I'm just a Renoir

Strike it rich

Fort Knox will kindly move over. As of this week, we've staked a claim to our own gold mine—just as dazzling as Fort Knox and a lot easier to get at (ours is not in vaults!) Our El Dorado is the opulent "Midas Touch" (see ad at left) of drapery and upholstery fabrics threaded, woven, embossed, literally drenched with gold. See our Peachtree window that's the identical Gold Dust twin of the bedroom setting in October's issue of Living for Young Homemakers. Then come wander through our golden-glinted room settings in the newly redecorated Forward House on Davison's 5th Floor. See how easy and downright thrifty it is to put your own home decor on the Gold Standard with the "Midas Touch."

Fire Poses Threat Greater Than Hazel

As raging floods in the wake of the most disastrous hurricane in history take their toll along the Eastern seaboard, a threat of even worse disaster hangs over Georgia and most of the Southeast.

The Georgia Department of Forestry reports that 85 forest fires raged over the state during the weekend. Several approached major destructiveness. Any of them could have caused damage, real and potential, in the millions of dollars.

Most of the Southeast has been seared by one of the worst droughts in history. The fields are parched and dry. The grass lies dead. The falling of leaves began earlier than usual and the forests are veritable tinder boxes awaiting only the spark to ignite them.

The forests are not all that is threatened. With wells and streams dry in almost every county in Georgia, the danger to homes and to other buildings is apparent. An example was the burning of the old Pleasant Hill Baptist Church near College Park Sunday night. Origin of the fire was not determined, but there was no water available to extinguish it while it still might have been controlled.

Destruction of trees and buildings is not the sole damage that results from forest fires. The parched land, denuded of vegetation, is laid bare for erosion when the winter and spring rains fall. Wind, too, will take a toll as it blows the dust-dry topsoil away.

This is, therefore, a plea for extreme caution. The damage that could come to Georgia and other Southeastern states this fall could be greater than the millions in losses left by capricious Hazel as she rushed northward to Ontario.

A carelessly thrown lighted cigarette, the neglected camp fire, the heedlessly thrown torch—there are scores of hazards that can be curbed with care.

Negligence and carelessness in the face of the conditions we know to exist are luxuries we cannot afford. In fact, they are downright criminal.

The Baffling Altamaha Case Has Been Closed

Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook announced Monday that Rayonier, Inc., and the State of Georgia harmoniously had agreed upon a consent decree in the dispute arising from the great fish kill in the Altamaha River of several weeks ago.

The decree, which places no blame on anyone, was based on the fact that neither the biologists representing the state nor those representing the corporation were able to say positively what caused the deaths of the fish.

All interested parties, fishing clubs on the lower reaches of the river, the state and Rayonier, sought to determine the cause. It was not possible to reach a conclusion, and it was agreed that the company's methods of waste disposal would not cause fish deaths. If someone had erred, it was not possible to discover who it was.

Under terms of the decree, Rayonier will install even more check procedures on its waste disposal system, not only as a check upon itself, but to prevent future contamination of the Altamaha from other sources.

It is a common sense decision, and we salute all concerned for working out an amicable solution to a perplexing problem.

A Georgia Grande Dame Dies, Mourned by Many

A great and good lady died yesterday at her home in Americus, Mrs. Florence D. Hollis, grandmother of House Speaker Fred Hand, candidate for governor in the recent primary. Mrs. Hollis was mother-in-law of the late Grantland Rice. She was 105 years old.

All her years she took an interest in people and affairs. All her life she had a quiet faith which added to her serenity. On her 100th birthday, attended by many famous persons, and many others whose love for her was as great, if not as obvious, she was up and about, brisk and alert, commenting and debating current events, including the fortunes of the Americus baseball team. She was one of its fans who attended its games despite her years.

She lived through the War Between the States and the unnecessary, tragic aftermath of Reconstruction. She saw wars and depressions come and go. Many thrones and kingdoms fell during her lifetime. Men and women rose to greatness and fell into obscurity. She saw all the vast panorama as a part of God's will and as an evolution of man's struggle to attain a civilization ordered of, by, and for a Supreme Being.

During her last few years she was bedridden. But, even so, she lost none of her cheerfulness, faith or interest in life.

Despite her 105 years her mind was never old, nor was her spirit. And therein, we think, lies the moral and lesson of such a life. The Atlanta Constitution joins her family and friends in sorrow, but also recognizes the happiness that such a long and useful life has provided.

A Well-Fed Populace Is Cure for Communism

The World Bank has loaned the Central American republic of El Salvador $11,000,000 for road construction. The money will be used to help finish a 190-mile all-weather highway along that country's Pacific Coast.

El Salvador is next door to Guatemala, the land the Communists nearly captured last spring. The basic causes that made communism so attractive to the Guatemala peasants may be said to exist in El Salvador, as well as in most of the Latin republics. First and foremost, these causes are economic rather than ideological, and the answer is a more abundant life.

These lands are agricultural. Poorly developed communications and means of getting the produce of the land to market are some of the things that keep the people down, hungry and dissatisfied.

Right now the United States needs friends and good neighbors. They can be made in Central and South America through aid like this loan which helps open up a country and lays the base for a sounder internal economy.

A Strong Title Law Will Cut Auto Thievery

Georgia still needs an adequate motor vehicle title law. This need has been made even more apparent by the discovery of an auto theft ring operating from Atlanta to the Hinesville-Savannah area.

The Fulton County Grand Jury last July recommended strongly that a title law be enacted in Georgia.

The Legislature, in its last session, made a weak gesture in this direction but the present law is far from any sort of protection to automobile owners over the state.

Extra paper work has been advanced as the reason a title law with teeth in it has not been passed in Georgia. This, it seems, is a flimsy excuse. Failure to enact the law has encouraged auto thieves in this area.

Georgia already has the reputation of being the easiest state in which to "handle" stolen cars. It will continue to have this bad name until a law is passed which will make the selling of stolen automobiles more difficult.

Surely, any extra work in the processing of motor vehicle titles will be well worth the effort. Automobile dealers will be relieved of the nagging worry of accidentally buying a "hot" car and the purchaser will be able to get a clear title.

The Navy Sets Out To Rediscover Antarctica

The Navy is sending an expedition to Antarctica to learn the whys and wherefores of that strange and icy world down under.

The explorers will stay for three years and set up three camps, one of them right at the South Pole. Men and instruments will register and measure whatever phenomena are around.

The Antarctic has been explored before by many nations including our own, but it never has been surveyed from the point of view of people who take jet planes, long-range bombers and guided missiles as a matter of course.

Time and distance have been compressed to almost nothing by the advances of modern warfare, and the forgotten poles of the earth have become of great strategic importance.

In addition to its military value, many suspect that the lands of Antarctica hide many a valuable mineral resource.

All the world knows of its whales and penguins, and that the territory is a second home to Admiral Byrd. Within the next three years the Navy's expedition may discover secrets there of profound and earthshaking importance.

Americans enjoyed a per capita income of $1,709 in 1953, according to a study made by the Office of Business Economics of the Department of Commerce. How much better off are Americans as a whole than the rest of the world is shown by comparable figures prepared by the President's International Development Advisory Board. These list the per capita income of Western Europe as $473, of Latin America $152, of Africa $118, of the Middle East $89, of Southern Asia $55 and of Southeast Asia $30.

Signs Locating Airport, Expressway Needed For Motorist Unfamiliar With Direct Route

Atlanta—Atlanta's expressway is a fine piece of engineering and is of undoubted value. Once on it, one can travel with speed and convenience but getting on it is a problem to the motorist who does not travel it daily.

Particularly difficult is the task of finding the expressway to Buckhead from downtown Atlanta. Plainly legible signs, "To the Expressway" placed at the entrance would do much to solve this problem.

Then, having solved the expressway problem, why not expedite travel to the airport? This route is even more difficult to find inasmuch as it is one that few Atlantans travel daily.

Let's have a "To the Airport" sign established indicating the most direct routes.

Call To Preach Belief Has Hurt in Past

Columbia, S.C.—It is most encouraging to read that a clergyman admits that God doesn't pick up His phone and make a person-to-person call to a man and tell him that he has been called to preach. I have reference to Dr. Allen's column of Oct. 13.

Such stupid belief that many clergymen have held in the past that preachers are called by God to preach has done great harm to the cause of religion. I have seen preachers who say that they have "received the call" and whom, I am sure, God would be ashamed to admit that He knew much less admit that He called them to preach.

The God I worship doesn't make mistakes, but if He "called" some of the preachers I have known, He would have made countless errors.

Wilson Should Save His Gas for Later On

Rome—By way of explaining Secretary Wilson's faux pas, his private secretary told reporters that Mr. Wilson's dog analogy did not refer to all unemployed, but specifically to one boy whom he knew that would not walk a mile to get a job.

Mr. Wilson considering the hard run before him should not have used all that gas on one boy, but should have wisely concluded, "I'll be dogged if I do."

Stone Mountain Plants Found Nowhere Else

Atlanta—The editorial regarding Stone Mountain is most heartening to the Georgia Botanical Society, of which I am a member. This organization was founded in 1926 for the express purpose of securing a botanical garden where native plants of Georgia can be saved for study and enjoyment.

Those who saw the exhibit at the recent Southeastern Fair were impressed with the importance of developing a botanical garden at Stone Mountain where there are plants which can be found nowhere else in the world.

Though requiring some capital to establish such a garden, in the long run it would prove a great financial as well as educational asset to the state. It would attract visitors from all over the world. But to guarantee its success, it should be the first "improvement" to be undertaken at Stone Mountain to insure against destruction of irreplacable native plants now there.

Swiss Watchmakers Typify Europe's Attitude to Tariff

In the Wall Street Journal

ZURICH—The waitress in the little mountain tea-rom, in a secluded part of Switzerland which few Americans ever reach, was anxious to show this American a cartoon in a Swiss magazine. It showed a little Swiss girl in pigtails announcing with firm decision: "I Don't Like Ike."

The reason for this sentiment was obvious: The President's decision raising the tariff on Swiss watches and watch movements by 50 per cent. This was only one of many indications that the Swiss feel a keen sense of hurt at this blow to one of their most cherished export industries, which employs about 10 per cent of their workers.

Although there has been some talk of organizing a "Buy Un-American" campaign, the Swiss have kept their heads, in spite of their sense of grievance. The individual American, like other foreigners, finds in Switzerland the same atmosphere of friendly courtesy and efficient service. There have been no reprisals in the form of increasing the generally low Swiss tariffs on American products.

But the sense of injustice remains. An argument which one often hears from the Swiss runs as follows:

"We are too small country to go in for mass production methods and factories with tens of thousands of workers, rolling off enormous quantities of mass-produced goods from assembly lines. We are glad to buy American automobiles and refrigerators. But why, when we buy more from America than we sell to it, should America discriminate against our traditional watch industry, with its standards of individual craftsmanship, especially when the dollars we earn from the sale of our watches help to make it possible for us to buy American products?"

It may be and often is argued that American tariff legislation is designed to benefit Americans, not Swiss, British, Scandinavians and other foreigners. But this does not dispose of the question whether protectionism is in the true interest of the American people.

If American industries, with their high level of technical development and their vast internal market, cannot hold their own against foreign competitors without special protection, it is difficult for America to preach convincingly the doctrine of free competitive enterprise to foreign countries. And it would seem the American consumer has the right to benefit from cheaper foreign products.

There is the further question of what would become of the American export industries, an ever larger source of employment and profits, if a wave of protectionism should cut down sharply the amount of dollars which foreign countries earn by sales in the United States. Just now this problem is not acute, because America is spending abroad every year several billion dollars in economic aid to foreign countries, in military aid, "off-shore purchases," spending of troops abroad and similar items.

But, should this situation change, we might discover some truth in the proposition that we cannot, in the long run, sell more goods and services abroad than we are willing to take in foreign goods and services.

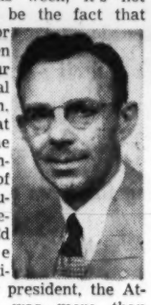
If Atlanta seems to have a fresh, washed feel this week, it's not rain. It could be the fact that 6,000 more or less laundrymen were here four days in national convention. (New Orleans at the same time felt the faith-lifting effects of several thousand Presbyterians.) For Ed Pearce, the American Institute of Laundry president, the Atlanta objective was more than just convening with brothers of the wash. Ed came to town to enjoy a bath in a full tub. The drought has had his hometown, Greensboro, N.C., on water rationing, 15 gallons daily to a family. Hardly enough to wet the toothbrush. Ed and Mrs. Pearce were hoping that Ill Wind Hazel had blown enough moisture Greensboro-ward to allow an open faucet henceforth.



The dean of the laundrymen in convention assembled was a Georgian, Arthur Solomon of Savannah. Born in Savannah—almost 82 years ago, Mr. Solomon has been in the business 57 years, at the same stand, the E. & W. Laundry. The label dates back to the day when a man's shirt was two-piece and E. & W. was the collar.

Arthur Solomon claims also the distinction of being the oldest county commissioner in the state. And at the laundrymen's inner circle, dress affair Friday night he pointed proudly to the label as proving ownership of the oldest tuxedo present. The label read: "Karsner, Sept. 1908." Karsner was the man he bought it from.

The record speaks well for the Solomon figure and both for the quality of the garment and for the cleaner.

Sign on the Cross Was in 3 Tongues

An interesting and unusual kodachrome postcard has recently come to my attention. It is a reproduction of a painting which hangs in the chapel at Bacone College, school for American Indians in Muskogee, Okla. The picture, which is unlike any other I have ever seen, is entitled "Indian Christ in Gethsemane." In the foreground is depicted an Indian brave who kneels in prayer in much the same posture as Christ is shown in Hoffman's famous painting of "Christ in Gethsemane." In the background, under sheltering rocks, are three other Indians who have fallen asleep.

The painting is very moving and appealing. As I look carefully at it, I realize a truth which has a world of meaning. The artist, Walter Richard West, an Indian, has here expressed his loving devotion to Jesus Christ. The Christ he is devoted to is not a Man who lived 2,000 years ago in Palestine. Christ for him is a Man of his own people. So in the painting Christ is shown with braided hair and the clothing of an Indian youth.

I have seen other pictures which similarly identify Christ with the racial characteristics of a particular people. Among these are pictures of Jesus with the facial features and apparel of a Japanese, an African or an Eskimo. Many modern artists have shown Jesus as having the characteristics of someone living in the Western hemisphere in the 20th century.

The message I derive from these paintings is profoundly true. Of course, we all realize that Jesus was "a child of His times and generation." He spoke the language of His own people, He wore their garb, He accepted the trade of carpentry, and He was educated in the local synagogue.

Yet at the time of His crucifixion, the universality of His words and ministry was suggested by the placard that was raised above His Cross: "A superscription also was written over him, in letters of Greek, and Latin, and Hebrew" (Luke 23:38).

After His Ascension His disciples began to move along the various roads which led far beyond Jerusalem. They became history's great pioneers who blazed trails into dark continents and into a world-wide arena.

The Jesus of Palestine is the Christ of all mankind. "Christ is all, and in all" (Colossians 3:11). He alone claims the allegiance of men from every race and creed. So real is the Spirit of Christ in our world that men think of Him not as One who once lived in a distant country at a long ago time. He lives in their hearts and homes. He is so real to them that they think of Him as their own.

John Oxenham expressed this truth in his well-known words: "In Christ there is no East or West . . . In Him no South or North . . . But one great Fellowship of Love . . . Throughout the whole wide earth."

Republican Victory Likely in Michigan

DETROIT, Mich.—In a state normally and nearly as Republican as Kansas, Michigan's senior Republican senator, Homer Ferguson, appears to be successfully stemming a visible Democratic tide.

It isn't easy. But at this point, with the election just around the corner, Mr. Ferguson has victory within reach and only the most impossible turn of events is likely to change the picture.

This means that President Eisenhower will have as chairman of the Senate Republican policy committee for the next two years, a full-scale ally of his entire legislative program.

An even stronger ally than Mr. Ferguson already is.

As chairman of the Senate Republican policy committee, Sen. Ferguson is appraised by the Congressional Quarterly on his past record as an "86 per cent Eisenhower supporter." He is conducting his present campaign as a "100 per cent Eisenhower supporter." As the senator puts it to his Michigan audiences, he intends to be "with Ike all the way."

This is not a radical change for Sen. Ferguson. It is a cumulative change.

As a long-time conservative Republican, Mr. Ferguson always worked to help Sen. Robert A. Taft realize his ambition to become the Republican presidential nominee, and at Chicago two years ago, he would have preferred to see Mr. Taft nominated over Gen. Eisenhower.

But his voting record during the past year in Congress justified the president in counting him a sympathetic legislative aid. As examples, he voted for the St. Lawrence Seaway, supported the White House on the Taft-Hartley amendments. He favored the eighteen-year-old voting law and backed the president in trying unsuccessfully to get up 140,000 public housing units approved by Congress.

This certainly makes Sen. Ferguson an Eisenhower supporter. The only difference is that the campaign he is now waging for re-election finds him committing himself even more so. As he put it in a speech in Cadillac before an audience which clearly approved his words, he will be found "squarely behind President Eisenhower's fight to improve the economic welfare of every American."

And it is obvious that he does not share the implications of Secretary of Defense Charles Wilson's off-the-cuff remarks that many workers are unemployed because they don't go out to search for a job.

Understandably the Democrats are taking every possible advantage of Mr. Wilson's bumbling phraseology for which he has now apologized. Words apparently come to Mr. Wilson with all the precision of a kite in a hurricane. Sen. Ferguson's fight has now been made all the harder. But he seems clearly in the lead and, if he remains there, the White House will have a legislative ally even more committed than before.

Thomas L. Stokes

'No Recession' Talk May Defeat GOP

WASHINGTON—When Secretary of Defense Wilson blurted out his luckless crack about bird dogs and kennel-fed dogs in connection with the unemployed, he only dramatized a basic mistake in political psychology made by the Eisenhower administration many months ago.

That was its refusal to recognize the economic recession, but to attempt instead to whistle it away and to discount the extent of unemployment.

It got itself into the position where it could hardly express much concern about a situation which it insisted, in the first place, did not exist. That attitude could not be any great comfort to the vicims, the unemployed.

It is very plain to anyone who travels about the country that the congressional election campaign, as it nears it climax, has come to revolve almost entirely about what is often called "the bread-and-butter issue." The chief sources of discontent, and likewise of Republican weakness, are two—farmers and labor. The reason is the same in both cases—reduction of income.

In the case of industrial workers, you get only half the story in the actual unemployment. That is spotty though serious in its effects where it exists, both from the human standpoint and politically. The other half of the story is the cut-down in take-home pay due to elimination of over-time pay and to part-time schedules in many instances.

What this has meant is a reduction in a standard of living based on over-time pay that workers and their families had come to accept as normal. It operates in the same way as a cut in salary or in wages, both actually and psychologically. This has made it impossible for many families to meet financial obligations of various sorts to which they had committed themselves on the basis of the boom income, and that, of itself, reacts back upon the economy.

While it is easy to condemn the state of mind that developed in the over-time pay era, it is human and is seeking a target politically in the party in power, the Republicans. It seems to do little good to explain, as Republicans are trying to explain, that only in war could anyone expect such overtime, that it is impossible in peace and peace is, after all, the desirable condition.

Nor has it seemed to have much effect among farmers to explain that their fall in income started back under the Democrats. They voted the Democrats out in 1952 and seemed to expect something different from the Republicans. The election next month will offer dissatisfied farmers, as well as industrial workers, their first opportunity to express themselves on the new Republican regime. That has become the function of congressional elections in off-years—a referendum. That such a referendum might result in what Republicans call a "divided government" is a consideration that does not seem to carry much weight with most voters.

State Plans To Deliver 132,000 Trees

Georgia's state forest tree nurseries will deliver an estimated 132,000 seedlings to land-owners during the next fiscal year, making possible the reforesting of more than 140,000 acres.

This report forecasting a new record in reforestation was made Monday by State Forester Guyton DeLoach at a meeting of the Georgia Forestry Commission.

DeLoach also reported progress in establishment of a new state forest research center at Macon where studies already have been initiated on forest genetics, hardwood control, prevention and control of insects and disease, and establishment of pine seed orchards.

Gov.-Nominate Marvin Griffin appeared before the commission to praise the state's forestry program and to pledge his support toward its advancement.

Expressway Bus Plan Sent to Committee of 3

By HERMAN HANCOCK

The Atlanta Board of Aldermen sent three important measures to special committes Monday for further study and reports.

The Metropolitan Transit System's proposal to establish bus service on the north leg of the expressway was referred to Aldermen Ed A. Gilliam, Jesse Draper and Ralph Huie, who will meet at 2 p.m. Friday to discuss it.

NEW ZONING

New zoning and land use ordinances which would affect the 128 square miles in Atlanta's city limits will be considered by a special zoning committee headed by Ald. Ham Douglas. Date for the session has not been set.

A proposal to establish truck routes was sent to the traffic committee, composed of Aldermen John A. White, Gilliam, Draper and Huie. It will meet at 2:30 p.m. next Monday.

In addition to studying the truck route proposal, the traffic committee also will consider proposals to bar parking at all hours on the south side of Orme Circle between Park Ave. and Boulevard, and to eliminate parking on Boulevard from Ponce de Leon Ave. to Piedmont Ave.

Aldermen suspended the regular order of business to hear Mayor Hartsfield declare that Georgia is behind other states of the nation in court procedures. He said surveys preparatory to construction of a new and modern traffic court away from the police station as recommended by experts show that most large cities of the nation try all types of traffic cases including drunk drivers, and many of them try all types of misdemeanor cases.

He cited surveys made in Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Birmingham, Denver and other cities, all of which he said have greater jurisdiction than Atlanta courts

There has been a running battle between Atlanta and Fulton criminal court officials for months over Atlanta's effort to get jurisdiction over drunk driving cases.

Aldermen also:

1. Heard Public Works Committee Chairman Draper predict contracts will be let on the first stretch of the multi-million-dollar downtown connector before the end of the year. The work will be let by the State Highway Department, with the city providing the right-of-way.

VOTER REQUIREMENT

2. Sent to the Public Works Committee a proposal to establish an 80-foot right-of-way for the proposed extension of West View Dr., SW, and to the Ordinance and Legislation Committee a proposal to raise the required percentage of registered voters needed to qualify a candidate in the general city election from 2 per cent to 5 per cent.

3. Greeted Lee Evans Jr., son of Aldermanic Board President Lee Evans, who is on furlough from the Coast Guard before proceeding to his next assignment with the Voice of America in Athens, Greece.

Asks $660,000

The Motor Transport Department Monday asked a budget of $660,000 for 1954 exclusive of salaries. Committee members, headed by Ald. John Marler, approved the budget and sent it to Compt. Earl Landers. Chief items on the list are $575,000 for purchase of gasoline, oil, grease, tires and replacement parts, and $60,000 for an additional 100 by 100-foot prefabricated steel building to add space at the garage.

Enumerator Candidates Get Final Exams

Final examinations have been conducted for selection of census enumerators who will conduct a "farm count" in Fulton and Douglas Counties for the Bureau of the Census in November.

Thomas H. Porter Sr., crew leader in Fulton and Douglas for the bureau's survey, said 14 persons would be selected for the Fulton count and five for Douglas. Twenty-four persons took tests for Fulton, seven for Douglas.

Enumerators selected to take part in the nationwide farm count will undergo three half-day training periods at Fulton's administration building late this month and begin the survey the first week of November, Porter said.

Look U. 0, Post U. 0

Saturday Evening Post met Look last week in the traditional fall battle of the newsstand about puritan and pressure football. And as usual, this magazine hassle developed into a scoreless tie.

Just as surely as the haberdasheries will come out with "Straw Hat Week" in the spring and the razor blade people will offer special throat-cutting rates around World Series time, the magazine quarterbacks are going to dwell at length on the angles of football in the fall. The Post lately has leaned toward conservatism in football. Look has gone for the splash and splurge of the big game.

Bisher

If pressed for a decision between their two latest pitches for their own particular type, you'd have to rap the mat three times for Post. The veteran Philadelphia institution wins this one through crafty subject selection. It chose Dick Clasby, graduated Harvard backfield gentleman, to handle its case for "low pressure football."

Look, on the other hand, wormed out of not-so-taciturn Jim Tatum the story of how Maryland became a bulwark in the big college field. From a "third-rate" team, Look says, Maryland has risen to be a national power in the field whose "ultimate in college life is a Bowl bid," according to Clasby of Harvard. From this point on, each dug deeply into the flanks of the other with sharpened spur.

Each of these essays was written weeks ago, of course, leaving it to the magazines to exercise their unique gift of timing. The Post came through magnificently, hitting the market just after Harvard's upset victory over Cornell and just before one-point defeat by Columbia. Look came in bleeding and bruised by Maryland's knockout by UCLA on the West Coast, and then the horrifying tie by Wake Forest, advertised as a mismatch almost completely ignored in North Carolina.

By such flimsy happenstances as these is the success or failure of a magazine effort often determined.

—No Automatic, Supersonic Synchronizers

But the battle is well drawn, and so into it.

In the first place, neither Clasby of Harvard nor Tatum of Maryland is going to win any converts. The Harvards are going to believe in their Ivy League football and point at it with pride. The Marylands are going to stick with their powerhouse stuff, and even holler loud when an occasional defeat only proves that a football machine is made up of human parts, not nuts, bolts and automatic, supersonic synchronizers.

Look will help you recall that Dr. Curly Byrd, the former Maryland president now gone politicking, was the loudest squawker of all when Tatum's troops marched to two straight defeats in the Deep South at the close of the 1952 season.

"We were the best-coached team in the country our first seven games," Dr. Byrd told the Washington Touchdown Club, "and the worst-coached in the last two. Tatum stopped thinking and the team stopped winning."

The very idea that the president of Harvard could make such a public utterance causes one to grow faint.

It perhaps has not struck you that Harvard has been forced into its type of football by circumstance rather than choice. You recall, or if you're too young, you can read the old list of All-Americans. They are almost completely dedicated to the Ivy League. As the center of strength moved to the West and South, Harvard and the Ivy League found their methods had become old-fashioned. Consequently, if Harvard played a Big Ten or a Southeastern Conference schedule today the Clasbys would face Saturday after Saturday of shutout.

—To Each His Own, To Each His Own . . .

The pace of football has swiftened and they haven't stayed with it. Now, as if in a defense of their position, they point to their righteousness and their educational advantages. As Clasby sums it up, "Harvard is an educational institution, not a football factory. It's a great place to go to school. It's a great place to play football."

If Clasby likes Harvard, bully for him. If the Modzelewskis like Maryland, bully for them. There seems to be a place for both of them in this mixmaster world of ours.

If I had to choose my own personal course, it would be somewhere in between the two of them. Bobby Dodd has said it many times—that if everybody played football on the same level the public would never know the difference, that the people would still keep coming out for the same reasons they were coming out 20 years ago. It seems, then, that it's all a question of what kind of football you prefer. If you're a member of the Southeastern Conference, then it is required that you play major league football to stay on that level, or retire to the boondocks as did Sewanee. If you're a member of the Ivy League, then you play Ivy League football. Apparently the two shall never meet, unless it be by NCAA hammer-headedness, in which case it will get the same popular reaction as a cop retrieving a foul ball from a small boy.

While I defend neither the program of the Clasbys or the Tatums in its entirety, I do defend the right of each to sell his point of view. I'm convinced, though, that only circumstances will ever make a universal sale for either, after which consciences will be brought into line.

Sally League Names Bill Terry President

Ex-Giant, Hall of Famer Returns to Baseball After 13-Year Absence; To Assume Duties Nov. 1

AUGUSTA, Oct. 18 (AP)—Big Bill Terry, who earned a niche in baseball's Hall of Fame with the New York Giants, returned to the sport after a 13-year absence today as president of the South Atlantic League.

AUTHOR!—Bobby Dodd, who also coaches a football team, autographed copies of his book, "Bobby Dodd on Football," for first day buyers R. B. Wilby (L) and Mrs. W. M. Brannon. Picture was taken during a Monday book tea. Davison officials report first day sales of Dodd's book exceeded even those of "Gone With the Wind."

The immortal Giants' first baseman and manager was elected to succeed Dick Butler by the Class A league directors. Butler resigned recently to become president of the Class AA Texas League.

Terry was one of the greatest hitters of all time and managed the Giants to three National League pennants and one world championship between 1932 and 1941. His lifetime batting average with the Giants was .341.

The records show that William Harold Terry was born in Atlanta, Oct. 30, 1898, and that he broke into baseball as a pitcher with Atlanta of the Southern Association in 1914—before he was 16 years old.

Terry, now a successful automobile dealer in Jacksonville, Fla., joined the Giants in 1923 after playing with Shreveport, Toledo and other minor and semi-pro clubs.

After becoming the Giants' regular first baseman in 1925, he hit over .300 every year except one until he quit playing after the 1936 season. He won the National League batting championship in 1930 with a .401 average. No National League player has hit .400 since Terry.

Terry was a tense, hard-boiled ball player and was never popular with newsmen. Neither was he popular with John McGraw, the autocratic Giants manager who brought Terry up to the Giants. But when McGraw became ill in June, 1932, he stepped down and tagged Terry for the manager's post.

The next year the Giants won the pennant and beat Washington in the World Series. Terry managed the team to pennants again in 1936 and 1937, but lost both series to the New York Yankees.

Terry, respected as much for his fluid fielding as for his batting, was succeeded as manager by Mel Ott after the 1941 season and has been out of baseball ever since.

Sports writers elected Terry to the Hall of Fame this summer—an honor many felt would have been sooner had Terry and the writers been on a more friendly basis.

Terry was notified of his election as he was attending an automobile dealers convention in New Orleans and said he was "Delighted to get the job.

"I've always wanted a spot where I could keep my hand in baseball," Terry said. "It's a grand game and there's nothing like it in American sports."

He said he probably would assume the office on Nov. 1 since Butler is scheduled to take over as Texas League president on that date. He said his first move would be to move the league offices from Columbia to Jacksonville so he could devote "as much time as possible to the job.

He said he would install the league offices in his automobile agency.

The South Atlantic League, called the "grandmother of the minors," is composed of Augusta, Ga.; Charlotte, N.C.; Columbia, S.C.; Jacksonville, Fla., and Macon, Columbus and Savannah, Montgomery, Ala.

NEW SALLY PREXY BILL TERRY RELAXES

Giants' Hall of Famer Gets Class A Job

A's Owners Waiting, Accepting Applause

League Okay for Purchase Next Move Before Action

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 18 (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics, starting a new era under syndicate control after 54 years of rule by the Connie Mack family, played a waiting game tonight, with little to do but accept congratulations.

The old owners asked the American League for approval of the new owners and until the league acts, there's nothing for both sides to do but sit back and iron out a thousand and one details.

Among the felicitations were telephone calls from Arnold Johnson, the Chicago businessman, who sought to buy the franchise and transfer it to Kansas City.

"I've talked with Roy and Earle Mack and extended my best wishes," Johnson said. He expected to leave at 6 p.m. (EST) for Chicago. "But," he continued, "I'm still puzzled about the whole thing."

His state of mind was understandable. Until late yesterday, the 47-year-old Chicagoan appeared a shoo-in to be the next owner of the club. He had offered close to $3,375,000 to take over the franchise, its debts and assets and to move it to Kansas City. He had received American League approval last Tuesday to buy the club.

Then in four days a syndicate was formed and it accomplished something that had not been done in four months. It bought 91-year-old Connie Mack's 302 shares for $604,000. Earle Mack, retiring general manager and executive vice president, was paid $450,000 for his 163 shares. Roy Mack was paid $200,000 and reinvested $250,000 in the new organization. He also received a one-year contract as an executive with the club at $25,000 a year.

Roy said today he had sent a telegram to American League President Will Harridge, asking for league approval of the new owners.

Harridge was reported unreachable for the present in Chicago.

Mayor Joseph S. Clark, Jr., said he wanted to congratulate the eight-man group for "saving the Athletics for Philadelphia with the greatest ninth-inning finish in the history of great team."

Bob Carpenter, president of the National League Philadelphia Phillies said "I'm pleased that Roy Mack was able to complete his deal. I didn't want to buy Connie Mack Stadium, but had Arnold Johnson got the team and moved it to Kansas City, I wouldn't have had any alternative."

And the fans:

Bill Wall of Glenolden said "Since that Kansas City business I haven't been able to eat or sleep. I've been an A's fan since I've been six years old. First or last, the A's have always been my team."

Aaron's Ankle Mending Well

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 18 (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves said today that rookie outfielder Henry Aaron's fractured ankle was "coming along fine" and that the cast would be removed in about three weeks.

Aaron broke a bone in his right ankle in August while sliding into third base in a game at Cincinnati.

Carson Learning Flanker Secrets From the Best

ATHENS, Oct. 18 — John Carson, rookie end with the Washington Redskins revealed in Athens Monday that he is understudying Hugh (Bones) Taylor, all-time Redskin flankman.

"Hugh is one of the best in the game," the ex-Georgia all-America said. "We work together everyday, and he's teaching me things I never dreamed about end play."

John admitted that his Redskins were having hard luck, but said pro ball suited him fine. He will rejoin his teammates Tuesday in Washington.

Carson is one of the finest athletes ever produced in Atlanta, and Georgia's only modern four - letterman.

Dreyer Gains TKO in First

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 (AP)—Gerald Dreyer of South Africa stopped Ramon Tiscareno of Los Angeles at the end of the first round of their scheduled 10-reund fight at St. Nicholas Arena tonight after flooring his rival for the third time.

The fight went to Dreyer automatically under the New York State Athletic Commission's three-knockdown rule. Dreyer weighed 149½, Tiscareno 145¾ pounds.

The end came just as the bell was about to sound ending the first round and Tiscareno hit the canvas for the third time as a result of three well placed rights to the jaw. As the West Coast fighter went down, the bell sounded.

COMES TO 'MY' COURT FIRST

Gavilan Sees Nothing But Woe For Challenger Johnny Saxton

SUMMIT, N.J., Oct. 18 (AP)—Kid Gavilan sees nothing but trouble ahead for Johnny Saxton, the New York Negro who will try to lift his world welterweight title Wednesday night at Philadelphia.

"He has two serious cases," said Gavilan today at his training camp. "On Wednesday he comes to my court and on Thursday in traffic court. But first he may go to hospital."

Gavilan referred to Saxton's trouble with the law as a "scofflaw" for ignoring traffic violations in New York. He is scheduled to go to jail for 15 days starting Thursday morning.

"Maybe he give me trouble five rounds," said Gavilan.

"I fight all styles fighters. I know what I do. But I want to know what he can do. After five rounds, I found out. Then it will be like Johnny Bratton at Chicago. Maybe he go to hospital before he go to jail."

The champ, now 28, wouldn't predict a knockout in so many words but he hinted strongly he planned to "surprise the whole world."

The last time he fought in Philadelphia he stopped Gil Turner, the home town boy, taking no chances on any local decision.

Gavilan said he weighed 149½ before today's final boxing drill and expected to come in at "about 146½" Wednesday noon. He will go to Philadelphia tomorrow night after a short workout, designed to melt off the last extra ounces.

According to the flashy Cuban, the right hand that bothered him in his middleweight challenge against Bobo Olson at Chicago in April is completely healed.

"I no take chance with hand in gym," he said. "But I use plenty Wednesday. If I hit him on button, he go."

Gavilan kept opening and closing his right hand as he talked as though to show it no longer bothered him. He had no operation, simply plenty of rest and exercise. Of course, he won't know for sure just what will happen when he throws a right-hand punch with all his old zip until the fight.

The champ also claimed he had completely recovered from the attack of mumps that forced a postponement of the match Aug. 31 on the eve of the bout.

"I stay three week in bed," he said. "I get out of bed just before Marciano-Charles fight. I was weak very much. I take off weight in bed, down to 146. Three days after I go to camp I pick up five pounds, then I go down again. Now my weight, she level off and I feel strong."

The champ thinks Saxton may be more confident because of the postponement figuring the Keed might be weakened by his illness and his fight with the scales.

"I have surprise for heem," said Gavilan with the same show of confidence that he displayed before he exploded the Chuck Davey boom, at Chicago last year.

Henry Hair Hailed as Leading Candidate for All-SEC End

Jacket Senior Snags 13 Passes

By MEL DERRICK

With Tech's varsity getting a Monday holiday, a group of grid "experts" gathered in the Yellow Jacket publicity office were discussing prime SEC candidates.

"At Tech," somebody was saying, "there's Morris, there's Teas, there's . . ."

"There's Hair," assistant athletic director and defensive end coach Tonto Coleman finished for him.

Senior right end Henry Reeves Hair is the official name and title. Hen is the nickname, and Henry the program title.

A two-year letterman who did his high school work at Atlanta's Marist, Hair has long been an offensive star for the Jackets. But the upswing his defensive work ha staken is the prime reason for his sudden entrance into the All-SEC derby.

Hair, tied for the nation's number four pass receiving spot going into last week's tussle with Auburn, caught only one pass Saturday, didn't get credit for that since it was thrown by the Plainsmen's Bobby Freeman. It was Hair's second interception of the five-game season, tying him with deep backs Wade Mitchell and Johnny Menger for the team lead.

"Just think of it," Coleman exclaimed, "an end intercepting two passes in five ball games!" Words failed him at the magnificence of it.

Hair's Saturday interception choked off a Tiger drive, just as his first did against SMU two weeks ago. It also set up Billy Teas' 24-yard "scoring" run, a play called back on a Tech foul.

In games to date, Hair has made twice as many individual tackles as any other Jacket end. Admittedly, he has played more, going from 40 to 50 minutes in Tech's last three ball games. But this is a tribute to his stamina and clutch drive, not a means of explaining the large number of knock-downs.

On offense, his once "good" blocking now has become "exceptional." He led the Jackets in pass receiving with 16 catches last season, has 13 in five games this season.

Tech coaches class him better than any end the Yellow Jackets have faced this season. And that includes, among other stars, Auburn's Jim Pyburn.

QUICK OPENERS: With the varsity gridders taking the day off, Tech's B team and freshmen had the practice field all to themselves—and used it accordingly, sprinting through full practice. . . . Jacket coaches plan regular drills Tuesday.

Three coaches turned to the book business Monday, taking part in an uptown seminar on head coach Bobby Dodd's new book, "Bobby Dodd on Football." In the group, besides Dodd, were assistant mentors Ray Graves and Frank Broyles. . . .

Tickets still are available for Saturday's homecoming clash with the Kentucky Wildcats.

PITT PLAYERS PRESENT GAME BALL TO THEIR AILING COACH

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 18 (AP)—Students at the University of Pittsburgh today celebrated Pitt's 21-18 upset victory over Navy on Saturday but it was a quiet affair.

There was none of the usual madness of snake-dancing, placard waving and the like associated with the one-hour victory rally.

Lou Palatella, Pitt's burly tackle, told a few hundred students gathered:

"The boys (the team) are a little disappointed at the turnout but we won't quit. We're just starting."

Palatella headed a contingent of Pitt players who gave ailing coach Lowell (Red) Dawson the football used in Saturday's game.

The football, autographed by the entire squad, was presented to Dawson in his hospital room after Saturday's game.

Dawson entered the hospital last Tuesday and Tom Hamilton, Pitt's athletic director and former Navy coach, took over the coaching duties.

Shell Stars As Auburn Scrubs Drill

AUBURN, Ala., Oct. 18 (AP)—Auburn Coach Shug Jordan gave his regulars the day off Monday but sent his third team against the freshmen in a rugged hour-long scrimmage.

Halfback Alton Shell, only member of the first two teams participating in the heavy scrimmage, scored two touchdowns as the varsitymen beat the freshmen. He ran 25 yards for one touchdown and took a 40-yard pass from Jim Peerson for the other.

OXFORD, Miss.—Coach John Vaught learned that three of his Mississippi football regulars should be ready for Arkansas at Little Rock Saturday. Vaught said halfback Earl Blair, tackle Rex Boggan and end Dave Dickerson would be available for duty in the battle of unbeaten teams.

BATON ROUGE, La.—Louisiana State University's starting left tackle, Gary Dildy, broke a hand against Texas Tech Saturday and will be out about three weeks.

STATE COLLEGE, Miss.—Injury-troubled Mississippi State learned that regular right guard Max Williams will miss Saturday's game at Alabama.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — Capt. Darris McCord, 225-pound tackle from Franklin, Tenn., has a knee injury which will keep him out of Tennessee's football game with Dayton here Saturday, trainer Mickey O'Brien said.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala.—Alabama took a look at Mississippi State plays as run by the freshman. Quarterback Bart Starr, out with a sprained back the past few weeks, worked out in pads at about three-quarter speed. He might see some action against the Maroons Saturday. Buster Hill was shifted from quarterback to fullback.

NEW ORLEANS—Coach Andy Pilney promised to push his Tulane football squad through plenty of tackling drills this week in preparation for Saturday's home game with Georgia.

LEXINGTON, Ky.—A lengthy workout was given Kentucky's football squad today with the reserves finishing the drill with offensive and defensive work against the freshmen. Coach Blanton Collier said the squad was not in top physical shape as it began prepping for Georgia Tech.

Bob Clemens, Charlie Madison Still Georgia's One-Two Punch

Foots Averages 5.1 Per Carry

By DEWEY BENEFIELD
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

ATHENS, Oct. 18 — A pair of rugged senior backs are providing the one-two punch for Wallace Butts' comeback Bulldogs, just as they have for the past two seasons.

Alternate captain and fullback Bob (Foots) Clemens still spearheads the Bulldog ground attack although slowed by an injury all season. He has surrendered the rushing lead to Bobby Garrard, but still maintains a 5.1-yard average and is the No. 2 scorer.

Right halfback Charlie Madison leads the Bulldogs in three departments and is the No. 3 rusher. Madison has caught four passes for 68 yards, returned three kickoffs for 57 yards and has scored two touchdowns and kicked four conversions for 16 points.

Let's take a closeup look at the careers of this gridiron duet that arrived in Athens in the fall of 1951.

Both came from small Alabama high schools. Madison captained the football, basketball and baseball teams at Atmore High while Clemens captained the football and basketball teams at Jackson County High where he was president of the senior class and a member of student council.

Both won starting posts on the 1951 freshman team and were spring practice standouts.

As a sophmore, Clemens nailed down the fullback post early and became the first sophomore to lead the Bulldogs in rushing since 1947. Foots plowed for 460 yards in 106 carries.

Madison became the regular right halfback midway of the 1953 season and was the No. 2 rusher with 346 yards in 91 trips. He also caught nine passes for another 115 yards.

Clemens again led Georgia rushers in 1953 with 586 yards in 120 carries (4.9 average), was the top scorer and developed into a creditable defensive back under the one-platoon system. Madison was the No. 3 rusher with 146 yards, gained 100 yards on pass-receptions, another 99 with kickoffs and proved a demon on defense.

Last September, both Clemens and Madison had stiff competition for starting jobs. Clemens was sitting on top of the finest fullback heap in years and Madison was being challenged by ex-Marine Charles Harris and Jimmy Williams, a much-improved Athens junior.

But despite fine showing by their competitors, Clemens and Madison are still fixtures in the Georgia backfield.

Only an injury has been able to jar Clemens loose and Madison is still top man at right half. His performance against Vanderbilt was one of the finest examples of defensive sideback play seen in Sanford Stadium in years.

So much of the credit for Georgia's 4-1 record this season is due to the consistent play of these two tough Alabamans who have carried the brunt of the Bulldog ground game these past two years.

The Preparade

By Charlie Roberts

Never will we be guilty, as some are, of prattling about some Johnny-Come-Lately halfback who "is better than Clint Castleberry." We believe the late, great Atlanta Boys High and Georgia Tech star, who never weighed more than 158 pounds, was the greatest all-round back we ever saw. Like Charlie Trippi at Georgia later, Castleberry was a tremendously able defensive player.

Charlie Roberts

Over a three-year span, though, we've come to wonder if the closest thing to Castleberry—when all phases of play are considered—to come out of these parts isn't a wiry lad named Gene Estes, who is rounding out a great career at Alpharetta's Milton High.

Principal Vic Hansard, the former West Fulton coach, and Milton Coach Gus Letchas, a pair of wily and analytical football people, also hew to the theory that the six-foot 180-pounder is one of Georgia's all-time high school greats. Hansard sums it simply: "Gene's the best runner, tackler, blocker, passer, pass receiver and punter I've seen in all the time he's been here. Fact is, he's the best all-sports athlete I've ever seen in high school anywhere."

THE FUNNYBONE—Milton tackle James Dinsmore, rushing up to prone guard Oliver Mullinax after latter knocked himself groggy with savage tackle in Henry County game: "Get up from there, Oliver. We ain't got time to be restin' out here on the field during a tough game."

PREP PRATTLE—Stan Bivins, Americus' star who was honored by Atlanta and Macon TD Clubs as back of the week on the same day, rates Valdosta's Rabun Roberts at least the equal of publicized teammate John Robert O'Neal. He considers that pair and Thomasville's Marion Bush the best backs he's played against. Bush gained 201 yards in 13 tries, scored three TDs in a 37-13 victory over Adel, yet Americus Coach Carroll Jones says, "Bush is even better on defense." . . . Larry Puckett, 200-pound Buford center, performed for Lawrenceville for two years and Friday night played the "meanest, fightingest" game of his career against his former mates.

COMMERCE folks consider their 1954 backfield of Bootsy White, Richard Crocker, Daniel Ford and Jimmy Wheeler their best in many seasons. . . . For a boy who was in a car wreck last year and "will never play football again," West Point's Billy Hester is doing all right. He's scored 14 TDs, 28 PATs for 112 points so far. . . . Tip to college scouts: Don't overlook Eddie Ausband, Henry County (McDonough) tailback. The four-year regular's a "good un." . . . Bobby Weaver, Thomson's 6-4, 185-pound back, averaged 49.2 with his 29 punts last year, is averaging 56.6 this season. (If we can't sign Weaver, we'll settle for Thomson's statistician.)

Sooners Tops, Rebels Fifth in Polls

Condensed From Wire Reports

Oklahoma, Wisconsin, UCLA and Ohio State—the Big Four of college football—remained on top of both The Associated Press and United Press grid polls in that order after a weekend that saw general shakeups in lower brackets.

Ole Miss, which clobbered Tulane, 34-7, jumped to fifth in both national ratings, moving up from seventh in the AP votes, from eighth in UP balloting.

Alabama's Crimson Tide, which shocked Tennessee, 27-0, in Knoxville, rates twelfth in the AP poll, 15th in the UP. Georgia Tech is a 15th choice by the AP, out of the UP's top 20. SMU, beaten 10-7 by Tech, is listed 14th by the UP.

Both polls include two once-beaten teams in their top ten. Notre Dame, loser only to second ten Purdue, is sixth in the AP, tied with Minnesota for UP sixth. Army, beaten by South Carolina ranks ninth in both.

Rounding out the AP Top Ten are Arkansas (7), and West Virginia (10). United Press finished with Arkansas eighth, Colorado tenth.

The leading teams with first-place votes and season records in parentheses (points based on 10 for first place, nine for second, etc.):

1.	Oklahoma	(115)	(4-0)	1,891
2.	Wisconsin	(42)	(4-0)	1,732
3.	UCLA	(33)	(5-0)	1,580

Little Bob Captures Open Derby Stakes

Jig Saw Express Second; Firelight Pete Top Puppy

By BILL ALLEN
Constitution Sports Writer

CONYERS, Oct. 18—Ed Mack Farrior of Union Springs, Ala., handler of National Champion Warhoop Jake, turned loose a sharp-nosed male pointer named Little Bob Monday in the middle of the hot dry day and the two-year-old nailed the first native covey of the trials to put a lock on the Stone Mountain Open Derby Stake worth well over a hundred dollars.

Bob made his find on wild quail, according to judges DeWitt Sinclair and George Harden, bending in toward the end of a wide 30-minute ground race. Entering the bird field after handling the covey perfectly, Bob also found a released quail in thick honeysuckle and stayed intense on point until Farrior put the bird to wing and shot.

Second in the derby stake was Jig Saw Express, handled by Bill Rail with the day's two most mannerly finds, and a good two-year-old race. Third was Tuxedo Queen, handled by Herman Smith of Hatchechubbee, Ala., with the stake's best hunting race and two acceptable finds.

The puppy stake was again dominated by the progeny of Atlanta's triple champion Greenwood Bill, owned by H. M. Beattye. Winning puppy was Spunky Firelight Pete, handled by Herman Smith, running a strong tight-handling race. Second was a son of old Bill, H. M. Beattye's Brownie, handled by John Gates of Leesburg, and third was Sis, owned by Dr. Sam Orr Black of Spartanburg, S.C. Four braces of the Open All-age championship were run Monday and the remainder of the 28 dogs will contest Tuesday for the $1,000 Stake.

Polio Postpones S.C. High Tilt

BARNWELL, S.C., Oct. 18 (AP)—Barnwell High's scheduled game with Blackville Wednesday night was postponed until Nov. 5, it was announced tonight.

The contest was postponed because of the possibility that other Barnwell players might have contracted polio or might spread the disease.

Denny Carpenter, warhorse standout at right end, was taken to Columbia Hospital last week with the disease.

All Barnwell players were given gamma globulin shots last weekend "purely as a precautionary measure," head coach Charley Seay said.

Coach Seay said Carpenter is "getting along very well." Both legs and a hip were reported affected.

Chief Big Heart Meets Red Berry

The fabulous Wild Red Berry, a wrestler who quotes Shakespeare, makes his Atlanta debut Friday night when he meets Chief Big Heart in the City Auditorium feature. Prelims begin at 8:30 p.m.

The feature event is a one-hour, one-fall match.

Another Friday special pits Jerry Grahame, the Hollywood blond, with Englishman Sir Alan Garfield in a 30-minute tussle. Other matches pair Red McIntyre and Nick Carter with Tokyo Joe and Bowery Boy Jack in a tag team go; ond El Toro with Don McGee in a single affair.

WALLER TALKS TO QBs

AUBURN'S SHUG JORDAN FEELS '30-40' RULE WILL HURT SEC

By LARRY FOX

The Atlanta Touchdown Club got the other side of the 30-40-rule ruckus Monday, this time the "anti" viewpoint from Auburn Coach Shug Jordan.

Last week, Georgia Tech's Bobby Dodd discussed the background of the rules and why he favored them. This week was Jordan's turn and he responded with a vigorous "no."

"The 30 and 40 rules are definitely detrimental to the caliber of football in the Southeastern Conference," Jordan declared. "And this is no time for us to be de-emphasizing football."

Jordan said he was in favor of the over-all limit of 140 for all athletic scholarships but said schools should have some "states' rights" in deciding how they wanted to hand them out.

To show the decline of SEC football, Jordan pointed to last year's bowl results in which Alabama and Auburn suffered beatings while only Georgia Tech was able to win. "I think it will get worse," he said.

Jack Rudolph Stan Bivins

Jordan, SEC "Coach of the Year" in 1953, rated Georgia Tech and Alabama a little ahead of the rest of the conference teams and said that on any given day, any of the others could beat any rival in the league. But with the exception of Alabama and Tech, he felt that the SEC was weaker as a whole this year than in past seasons.

Jordan also found fault with the NCAA's "no-tryout" rule as being harmful to rural boys who don't have the advantage of big city publicity. "There's no way those boys can show you what they can really do," Jordan said.

Auburn day continued in Atlanta at the Quarterback Club Monday night when backfield Coach Charlie Waller, the former Decatur High tutor, took over the rostrum.

"Since we've lost those three games, we've been getting all kinds of suggestions from the alumni," Waller grinned. "Maybe there'll be some changes in the future at Auburn if we decide to take some of them."

Waller did give some insight on what it's like to be a backfield coach, however. "Every time I see a boy fumble, even if he's on the other team, I just cringe. I know there's nobody in the whole stadium who feels worse than that boy."

Also at the Touchdown Club, end Jack Rudolph of Grady and halfback Stan Bivins of Americus were honored as high school lineman and back of the week in Georgia.

W. Fulton Holds City Rifle Lead

West Fulton continued to hold the lead in City League Rifle tournaments Monday afternoon by topping Northside 854-844.

In other team matches, Grady downed North Fulton 841-817, Sylvan slid ny Brown 758-756, Roosevelt romped over Fulton 811-649, Bass topped O'Keefe 792-646, and Southwest got by Smith, 818-808.

Young Decisions Turner

BROOKLYN, Oct. 18 (AP)—Paddy Young, New York middleweight, won a unanimous 10-round decision over underdog Jesse Turner of St. Louis, before a crowd of 1,435 fans at the Eastern Parkway Arena tonight. Young weighed 165, Turner 158¾.

Employing a hooking attack through most of the gruelling battle, Young staggered his rival with a left hook in the fourth round, and had him in trouble again in the sixth.

Turner connected with a left hoo kto Paddy's jaw in the second round that sent him staggering halfway across the ring. But Young recovered quickly and engaged in a hot toe to toe exchange at the bell.

Brown Named To Hapeville Athletic Post

Steve Brown

C. S. (Steve) Brown, former athletic director high school and later at Druid Hills at Pahokee, Fla., high, has been named recreation director for the City of Hapeville.

Brown, a native of Greenville, S.C., was prominent in athletics there and later at Clemson College. He was a member of the athletic staff of Furman University in 1935 and 1936.

He also served as athletic director for Greenville County, South Carolina schools and Ada Merritt high school, Miami.

He expects to set up a well-rounded athletic program at Hapeville.

Cage Officials Meet at Marist

The Metropolitan Basketball Officials Association will begin their Rule Study meetings Tuesday night at 7:30 at Marist College, Ivy Street.

All officials interested in joining this season will attend the meeting in preparation for the annual clinic to be held November 20.

Meeting will be held each Tuesday until after basketball season with an omition of the clinic week.

Garagiola Quits Baseball for TV

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 (AP)—Joey Garagiola, veteran National League catcher with the New York Giants, is quitting baseball to go into radio and television work.

Garagiola applied to Commissioner Ford Frick today to be placed on the voluntary retired list. He said he planned to go into TV work in St. Louis.

NATION'S LEADING HAIR EXPERT, George M. Voss, examines scalp of hair-worried client. Voss has personally supervised the treatment of 30,000 men and women in the U. S.

Basic Principle of HAIR LOSS and GROWTH Revealed by Expert

The man who has had more to do with hair-worried citizens than anybody else summarizes his experience with 30,000 cases in one simple, matter-of-fact statement:

"The healthy scalp grows healthy hair—naturally!

"It seems so obvious," says director George M. Voss, of Voss Hair Experts, "you might think no intelligent person would deny its truth. But when you accept it, you must rule out practically all the common beliefs about baldness.

"For instance, most people are convinced that baldness is hereditary — 'runs in families,' so to speak. Yet I've never heard anybody argue that you can inherit an unhealthy scalp. So you can't very well inherit baldness, can you?"

Baldness Due To Age?

Voss has an impressive record to back up his conclusions. He has studied and treated hair disorders for 30 years — longer than any other hair expert in the U. S. In that time, he has examined and supervised treatment of at least 30,000 men and women, he estimates.

"Another common idea," Voss says, "is that a man just naturally loses his hair as he gets older. Why should he? There's no earthly reason why he should not keep his scalp healthy and his hair growing.

Something Can Be Done

"You've also heard men say that nothing can be done to stop hair loss once it starts. Why not? It's just a question of correcting an unhealthy scalp condition, and trading bad habits of hair care for good habits."

Not one male scalp in a hundred is actually healthy, Voss observes.

"If your scalp ached when it was in bad condition, as your teeth do, there wouldn't be 10,000,000 bald men in the U. S.

Free Examination

"Our first problem when you come in for examination, is to determine the exact condition of your scalp. On the basis of that analysis, we work out a special office treatment procedure for you and a home care procedure. We tell you what to do and what not to do for the good of your hair.

"Your very first Voss treatment begins to reward you. Your scalp feels better, more alive and healthy. Within days, all infection is cleared up, including dandruff. From then on, with your cooperation, we work to get your scalp back in the business of growing healthier, stronger hair."

When you talk with Voss, you get the feeling that this sincere man knows exactly what he's doing. There's no "miracle" foolishness, but a vast amount of knowledge gained from practical study and experience.

Take Off 30 Minutes

Why don't you take off 30 minutes and talk with Voss this evening or tomorrow . . . while you still have enough hair to be worth saving and improving? No obligation.

Make a note of this address now: Voss Hair Experts, suite 703 Grand Theater Bldg. Just take an elevator in the lobby. Phone number is ALpine 6164. Office hours, 10 a.m. to 7:30 weekdays, 9 to 2:30 Saturdays.

MRS. GREENGRASS, JIM CHECK FAMILY BUDGET

Homer Hitter Back Home In Atlanta After Baseball Wars

THIS IS BAD?

Adopted Atlantan Greengrass 'Jinxed' to 27 Homers, 95 RBIs

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

Jim Greengrass, an easy-going fellow who doesn't get angry often, has a "mad on" with a guy he didn't think he would have the misfortune to meet—Old Man "Sophomore Jinx."

The adopted Atlantan, home for the winter after a second big season with the Cincinnati Reds, thought he had escaped the plague that so frequently seem to strike down budding stars in their second season in the major leagues.

Blond, 200-pound Jim, who stroked 20 home runs, batted in 100 runs and hit .285 in his first season (1953) with the Redlegs, was pounding the ball at a merry clip when he ran headlong into the hated old boy in late season.

A leg infection from a blood clot, aggravated by continued play after a minor injury, sidelined big Jim for the tail-end of the season, starting Sept. 15.

"I sure hated it, because it kept me from reaching two goals I had set for myself," he said here Monday. "I wanted to hit 30 homers and drive in 100 runs in my second year. As it was, I got only 27 and 95 and hit .280 for the year."

Greengrass, an Addison, N.Y., native who made Atlanta his home after an Army stretch at Ft. McPherson during World War II, is enthusiastic about the Reds' chances of finishing higher in 1955 than they did this year, when they "lost" fourth place to the Philadelphia Phils on the last day of the season.

"Since the season ended we traded (pitcher Harry) Perkowski to the Chicago Cubs for Johnny Klippstein and Jim Willis, and they should help our pitching staff a lot," he said. "Jim Pearce and Gerry Lane, the ex-Atlanta Cracked we bought from Chattanooga, looked mighty fine in late season and should help, too. Pearce even threw a three-hitter and beat Milwaukee, 2-1.

"The guy who's got a right to be real proud though is Art Fowler. He got serious when he saw he had a chance to stick in the majors and pitched better ball than anyone we had. He would have had an even better record than 12-8 if he hadn't faced the other club's best pitcher so often."

Greengrass, who will work for an Atlanta beverage company until spring training starts, plans to run some and work out at the YMCA to keep in shape, a winter practice he follows religiously.

His impressions after a long summer baseball campaign? That Johnny Antonelli will become an all-time great pitcher, that Cincinnati would rather sell its franchise than Ted Kluszewski and that Dutsy Rhodes has the perfect philosophy about batting: "Think you're the best in the world and youu will be."

GEORGIA NEWS

'Trembling Earth' Is Drying Up

The huge Okefenokee swamp, 600 square miles of "quivering earth" in south Georgia, is drying up from the worst drought in modern times.

Fish have perished in tremendous numbers. Wading birds such as egrets, ibis and herons, normally present in abundance during the summer, left the area for the most part in July and August.

The birds concentrated on diminishing pools, feeding on dwindling fish supplies. When they left, buzzards had a field day feeding on carion left in the pools.

The swamp has had less than 50 per cent of normal rainfall on the basis of records of the past 50 years. During the first eight months of this year, only 18 inches of rain was recorded, against normal rainfall for the period of 37 inches.

Roy Moore, manager of the wild life refuge set up by the Federal Government in 1937, said visitor travel into the swamp is practically impossible because boat trails have dried up. The water level now is three feet below normal. Facilities for visitors at the northern edge of the swamp remain open, however.

A SWITCH IN HOBBIES

Challenge to Hot-Rodders Backed by Traffic Officials

By GENE BRITTON

A plan to channel the "thrill drives" of hot-rodders into activities of a miniature race car group got the backing of state and local traffic authorities Monday.

Heads of the Atlanta Police Department's Traffic Division and the Georgia State Patrol endorsed a plan proposed by officers of the Atlanta Miniature Race Car Club to bring speed-craving youngsters into the club.

J. H. Perkins Sr., president, and M. A. Olson, secretary of the club, Sunday offered to sponsor youngsters interested in competitive racing of the small cars, one to two feet long, at the club's Maddox Park track.

GET FILL OF SPEED

Perkins and Olson pointed out that youngsters would get their fill of speed in the little cars which whip around the 220-foot track at speeds exceeding 100-miles-an-hour. The demands for constructing and maintaining their cars would offer mechanical stimuli, they said.

Supt. T. J. Sykes of the Atlanta Police Department's Traffic Division said if the plan "didn't help but one youngster, it would help."

The main interest is hot-rods is not so much for speed itself, he said, as in the mechanical challenge. He added that he thinks the miniature cars of the club would fill that need.

STATE PATROL CHIEF

Col. W. C. Dominey, head of the State Patrol, said he is "in accord with any project that might possibly work to keep kids —or grownups — from breaking their necks."

Sgt. H. C. English of the Patrol's Statistics Bureau said teenage drivers were involved in 112 of a total of 796 fatal accidents last year. Of 50,511 drivers involved in all accidents, 4,966 were under 20 years of age.

Overflow Crowd Hails LaRosa Here

By PAUL JONES

Julius LaRosa, the handsome singing star who was fired by Arthur Godfrey at 11:30 a.m. Tuesday a year ago, opened a week's engagement at Joe Cotton's Steak Ranch Monday night.

A turnaway crowd was on hand to greet the crooner who looks like a fullback on a prep school football team. And the five telephone lines at the Steak Ranch buzzed incessantly throughout the night as fan clubs from throughout Georgia placed calls in frantic efforts to speak to the ex-Navy seaman who has earned in excess of $300,000 since Godfrey gave him the gate.

MUCH LIKE ON TV

Watching LaRosa at the Ranch was very much like seeing him on the Godfrey show. The singer was relaxed and went about his work with an air of informality, kibitzing with the audience, his accompanist and the orchestra. He seemed a mite nervous when several ringsiders insisted on his singing "Eh Cumpari," his greatest selling record, which he sang late in his program.

The high spot of his presentation was the "Godfrey medley" of songs he popularized while still a member of the famous redhead's cast.

LaRosa opened with a fast arrangement of "Sitting on Top of the World," which was nothing more than a show starter. The lights went down and he began a medley of "mood tunes," topped off by "Three Coins in the Fountain" and "I Concentrate on You."

NEW DIXIELAND TUNE

Midway his 45-minute presentation he introduced a new Dixieland tune he has recorded for his own label entitled "Mobile." He encored with "Try a Little Tenderness."

The interest shown so far indicates that LaRosa's engagement will be one of the most successful at the Steak Ranch. He will be seen there each night through Saturday.

Burns Predicts Economic Upturn But Counters With Handful of Ifs

By FOSTER HAILEY
New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

DETROIT, Oct. 18—A guarded prediction that "we are again entering a phase of economic expansion" was made today by President Eisenhower's chief economic adviser, Dr. Arthur F. Burns.

Dr. Burns, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, qualified his prediction, however, in the next sentence of his talk before the Economic Club here.

If the present recovery should prove abortive "as have many recoveries in the past," he said, the government might be expected to take action on the three main premises on which basic policy has been based so far. These, he said, were:

1. That since "our system of free and competitive enterprise is on trial, the government cannot stand aloof from the private economy, but must be ready to take vigorous steps to help maintain a stable prosperity."

2. Among these steps would be to "enlarge the potential role of automatic economic stabilizers—especially unemployment insurance." A government must act well before extensive unemployment develops, he said, and it "must handle cautiously the fuel of inflation."

3. The government "must conduct its affairs so as to inspire favorable expectations concerning the future." To do so, he said, it must eschew "make - work schemes" but show a willingness to provide public assets such as highways.

It must use monetary policy "in a flexible manner," give priority to tax reduction over expanded expenditures and use tax reduction with an eye to stimulating both consumption and investment "rather than one or the other."

"If governmental policy in the months and years ahead continues to adhere to these premises, if government resists doctrinaire thinking of both the right and the left, if government steadily maintains a watchful eye on the state of business and consumer sentiment, and if it gives heed to the need of avoiding inflation as well as depression; we may, I think, be reasonably confident that—although we are likely to continue to have fluctuations in individual markets and to some degree even in the economy as a whole—we will avoid in the future the business depressions that have marred our brilliant record of free enterprise in the past," he said.

High Court To Review Bramblett Kickback Case

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (AP)—The Supreme Court agreed today to pass on the validity of the conviction of Rep. Ernest K. Bramblett (R-Calif) on charges of falsifying his office pay roll and receiving "kickbacks" from a woman listed as an employe.

The question before the court is whether the House Disbursing Office, which handles congressional payrolls, is a government department or agency within the meaning of the false statement law. Bramblett was convicted of making false statements to the disbursing office.

Rep. Bramblett

In another ruling, the high tribunal turned down appeals by cowboy movie actors Roy Rogers and Gene Autry. The two had sought a review of their unsuccessful suits to prevent telecasting of old films, made by them, in connection with commercial advertising.

BOTH HAD LOST

The U. S. Circuit Court in San Francisco had ruled against both actors. Rogers sought an injunction against Republic Pictures Corp. to prevent telecasting of 81 films. A similar suit by Autry against Republic involved 57 movies.

In its second session of handing down orders this term the Supreme Court granted reviews in 6 appeals and rejected 26 others.

Bramblett was convicted last February by a jury in U. S. District Court here of making false statements to the House Disbursing Office in connection with putting a woman on his office payroll. The Justice Department said Bramblett received salary "kickbacks" totaling about $3,300.

After the conviction U. S. District Judge Walter Bastian stayed sentencing of the congressman on motion of defense counsel. This action, in effect, permitted the Justice Department to take the case directly to the Supreme Court.

Bastian said he agreed with Bramblett's lawyers there was reasonable doubt whether the false statement law applied to the legislative branch of government.

APPEALED TO COURT

The Justice Department appealed directly to the Supreme Court to overrule Judge Bastian, ard contended the law clearly applied to the House Disbursing Office.

The law specifies that it is a crime for anyone to make a false statement "in any matter within the jurisdiction of any department or agency of the United States."

Bastian said in his decision that if the Supreme Court upholds him "the case will be finally determined favorably for the defendant." If the court decides the law does apply in Bramblett's case, he said, "the only matter remaining will be the return of the case to this court for sentence."

However, the congressman could still appeal after the sentencing. Convicted on seven counts, he faces a possible maximum sentence of 35 years' imprisonment and a $70,000 fine.

Chief Justice Warren, former governor of California, Bramblett's state, did not participate in today's decision.

The Supreme Court also agreed to hear appeals from:

1. Three Wichita, Kan., taxicab drivers who were sentenced to jail for refusing to answer questions asked by a county judge during an inquiry into violence in a taxicab strike.

2. A decision declaring unconstitutional parts of an Oklahoma law regulating the eyeglass business.

Gladys Plans To Make Wine With Bare Feet

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 (AP)—Gladys Swarthout, former movie star and Metropolitan Opera soprano, said today she plans to make wine on her own Italian farm by stomping on grapes in her bare feet.

Miss Swarthout returned from a European trip, during which she and her husband, Frank Chapman, bought a five-acre farm near Florence, Italy.

She said she was disappointed to see her hired help crushing grapes with wooden mallets.

"I am anxious to get back there next spring," she said, "and when the time comes to make wine, I want to stomp on the grapes with my bare feet."

Young people today face far greater competition for good jobs and advancement than ever before

Now more of our young people can get more education!

For every 100 young people graduating from high schools and trade schools in 1930, there are 180 today. For every 100 graduating from college, there are 350 today. And the numbers are increasing!

Young men and women have many more opportunities for education today. More scholarships are available. More students are working part-time to help pay the cost. And parents have higher incomes.

Millions are making sure the children will have the education they need, whether or not the father lives to see them through.

One of the ways they do this is through life insurance. Already thousands of young people have been helped through school by life insurance plans.

Today, 90 million people own life insurance. They buy it to guarantee a financial backlog for the family if the father were to die. And they are using life insurance in many other ways—for instance, to cover the mortgage on their home or to build an adequate retirement program. More than half of all life insurance benefits are now paid to the policyholders themselves.

Thus, to millions of families, life insurance is bringing greater opportunity, as well as greater security. It is America's most popular form of thrift.

30 Are Hurt In St. Louis Train Wreck

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 18 (AP)—More than 30 persons were injured today, none reported seriously, in the collision of a crack Wabash passenger train from Detroit and a work train on the St. Louis approach to a Mississippi River bridge.

Only 12 of the injured were admitted to hospitals in St. Louis and nearby Granite City, Ill., for further treatment.

Only one track on the Merchants Bridge, across the Mississippi River in north St. Louis, was being used because of repair work.

A Terminal Railroad Assn. switch engine and the work car were on that track when the passenger train, the Cannonball, came across.

Crews of both trains told police they thought they had the right-of-way.

The engineer of the Wabash train, Herman Coeppe, 66, of Decatur, Ill., was among the injured.

Several of the passenger cars were pulled back to the Illinois side because of difficulty in reaching them from the St. Louis side of the river.

Glasses That Can't Be Seen

Free booklet explains how you can see without glasses!

Atlanta (Special) — A European scientist has invented a new type of corneal contact lens, which revolutionizes visual aids and may enable millions of Americans who are now slaves to glasses to actually throw them away. The secret of the radical difference and superiority of the lens lies in a specially ground and polished recessed and domed central portion, which prevents the lens from touching the most sensitive part of the eye—its center. Visual discomfort and poor sight can now be improved far better than with glasses. The lens is absolutely invisible. No fluids or impressions are required. Persons who wear thick glasses with strong corrections; post-cataract cases and cases of Keratoconus, mixed astigmatism, strong farsightedness and nearsightedness can now be corrected far better than with glasses. Price now only $75.00. Come in, write or phone for your copy of the interesting Booklet, "The Truth About Contact Lenses" to Research Director, Atlanta Invisible Contact Lens Service, Volunteer Bldg., 66 Luckie St., Suite 23, Atlanta, Ga. Stringfellow Resigns As Candidate of GOP

Times, last Thursday published a story saying other veterans were challenging the veracity of the Utah congressman, now completing his first term.

For more than two days, Stringfellow denied the accusations and even asked President Eisenhower to open secret files of the Office of Strategic Services—of which Stringfellow said he was an agent in 1944—"for verification." The White House has refused comment.

Saturday evening, Stringfellow broke. With tears in his eyes, he went before the microphones and cameras of a Salt Lake City radio and television station and confessed he was the victim of "my own glib tongue." His only overseas service, he admitted, was as an Army private who never saw actual combat.

He said he began embellishing his war record while in the hospital, learning to walk haltingly again because of wounds suffered when a German mine exploded under him shortly after he landed in southern France.

Stringfellow said that when he began telling his story, others added color to the tale of heroism and he did nothing to set the record straight—even when he won the central figure on a widely viewed (This Is Your Life) television program. Last January.

Republican leaders reported that hundreds of Utah residents, expressing sympathy for Stringfellow and admiration for his "courage" in publicly confessing his falsehoods, had asked that he be retained as the GOP nominee against Granger.

Many others urged he be repudiated by the party. The two Salt Lake City daily newspapers, the Deseret News and Salt Lake Telegram and the Salt Lake Tribune, in strong editorials today recommended he be returned to private life.

Methodist Clergy Raps School Plan

tain public segreated schools. The amendment would completely disrupt Georgia's public education system, and establishment of private schools would be a death blow to democracy at the grass roots, Collins said.

Griffin said he is declaring his intentions now so there will be "no misrepresentations" and no "disillusionments." He urged passage of the amendment, stating it will enable him to preserve segregation without cutting off school funds.

Peters pleaded for the amendment in a talk to the State Board of Education, meeting informally in Americus. He called it a "last-ditch stand" to preserve segregation. Peters declared he does not believe the Georgia Education Association, which is fighting the amendment, favors mixing the races, however.

Roy Harris of Augusta, member of the Board of Regents and the Georgia Education Commission, predicted the private school plan will destroy the University System. The state will have to divide funds now going to the public colleges with students in privately-owned and church-owned colleges, he said.

Howard Must Pay Wife $1,900 a Month

First Juror Picked at Sheppard Trial; Move for Delay or Site Change Fails

Cleveland area and ruled out a fair and impartial trial.

"There has never been a case in this community," the 67-year-old lawyer declared, "or in the state of Ohio—and I doubt ever one in the United States—where a murder received the publicity this one received."

Judge Blythin conceded that the 31-year-old Marilyn's ugly death in her own bedroom more than three months ago aroused tremendous public interest. But he added, with a reference to American guarantees of press freedom:

"This court has never yet found any way in the world of quieting down publicity if newspapers and news media care to expound."

Judge Blythin agreed with the state that a postponement of weeks—or even months—wouldn't divert public atention from the drama of the osteopath's fight. Sheppard faces the electric chair if convicted of premeditated murder—unless the jury recommends mercy.

SELECTION OF JURY

As for a fair and impartial trial, Judge Blythin said the best test of that will come during the actual jury selection. Unless and until it becomes apparent that a fair jury is impossible here, he held in abeyance the motion to transfer the trial outside of Cleveland.

Sheppard is scheduled to testify in his own behalf on the death of his wife, who bore him one son six years ago and was expecting her second child when she was slain. She was four months pregnant.

The osteopath claims that a bushy-haired stranger invaded the comfortable Sheppard home on the Lake Erie shore, killed his wife and knocked him unconscious. Mrs. Sheppard died from at least 27 savage head blows.

No murder weapon has been produced by the state.

BARED ON TECHNICIAN

The state's case, purely circumstantial on the surface, is built in part around winsome Miss Hayes, 24-year-old medical technician who once worked in Bay View Hospital at Bay Village, a community of 11,000 persons on the lake shore 12 miles west of Cleveland. Four members of the Sheppard family, all osteopaths, are on the staff at Bay View.

The prosecution claims statements from Miss Hayes admitting adultery with Sheppard last March. He was doing postgraduate work at the time in California, where Miss Hayes moved after she left Bay Village only a month or so earlier.

This purported affair is the closest the state has come so far to setting up a motive.

BROTHERS IN COURT

Sheppard's two older brothers were in court with their wives for the trial opening. They greeted him warmly at the first opportunity, the luncheon recess.

Dressed in a neat blue suit, Dr. Sheppard was escorted into the courtroom at 10:40 a.m. He was pounds lighter, and shades paler than when he went to jail last Aug. 17.

Photographers, television and movie cameramen crowded around taking pictures as an attendant unsnapped handcuffs from the defendant's wrist.

Judge Blythin warned the photographers against any such invasion of the courtroom in the future.

The reception led Corrigan to complain after the court convened:

"The very atmosphere of the court this morning signifies we are in a case which is unprecedented in this county. The corridors are full of people. When I came into the courtroom this morning I found at least 15 or 20 photographers."

BANS PHOTOGRAPHS

Last week Judge Blythin announced that from the time the court convenes in the morning until it is adjourned in the afternoon, no photographs, broadcasts, telecasts or tape recordings can be made in the courtroom. Such activities are allowed in the building corridors.

Corrigan then surveyed one long press table inside the court railing, counted aloud 16 reporters at work, and told the court:

"It is interesting to see, your honor. . . . That all this talent comes here and is devoted to a murder case in this little Ohio community. . . .

"The atmosphere this morning is such that I don't see how we can receive a fair and honest trial. . . .

"Even your honor, when he tried to mount the bench this morning, found the bench occupied by photographers."

EFFECT ON MINDS

Corrigan contended the minds of people in the community had been poisoned against Dr. Sheppard by the publicity, and that the case had been discussed "in every saloon and barroom in the community."

Assistant Prosecutor John J. Mahon, trying the case for the state, replied that a delay in the trial wouldn't cool off public interest. He argued against transfer of the case to another county on grounds the publicity was statewide, not just local.

"If you move this case to any other part of Ohio," Mahon declared, "they have had publicity in those counties comparable to what you've had in this county."

Mahon also bore down on the same theme Judge Blythin later outlined—that the only test of fairness and impartiality would come during the actual selection of a jury.

Lone Yachtman Ends 3rd Atlantic Crossing

PLYMOUTH, England, Oct. 18 (AP)—Edward Allcard, an English Yachtsman who likes to be alone, sailed into Plymouth harbor today after his third lone Atlantic crossing.

Allcard bought his 10-ton ketch, "Sea Wanderer," in New York and fitted her with an engine. He first sailed to the Bahamas, finished his preparations and then set out across the Atlantic on Aug. 2.

He sighted land once briefly during his 77 days at sea. The voyage of 7,000 miles brought his total of miles sailed alone to more than 21,000. The bit of land he sighted was in the Azores.

Little Tricks of Everyday Talk Can Open the Door to Popularity

A publisher in Chicago reports there is a simple technique of everyday conversation which can pay you real dividends in both social and business advancement and works like magic to give you added poise, self confidence and greater popularity. The details of this method are described in a fascinating booklet, "Adventures in Conversation," sent free on request.

According to this publisher, many people do not realize how much they could influence others simply by what they say and how they say it. Whether in business, at social functions, or even in casual conversations with new acquaintances, there are ways in which you can make a good impression every time you talk.

To acquaint more readers of this paper with the easy-to-follow rules for developing skill in everyday conversation, the publishers have printed full details of their interesting self-training method in a 24-page booklet which will be mailed free to anyone who requests it. The address is: Conversation Studies, Dept. 9287, 835 Diversey Parkway, Chicago 14, Ill. A postcard will do.

Dr. Storer is scheduled to speak at 4:40 p.m. Tuesday. His subject will be "World Missions." The Woman's Missionary Union will serve supper at 5:30 p.m.

The Rev. R. L. O'Brien, pastor of the Capitol Avenue Baptist Church, is moderator of the Atlanta association. Dr. James W. Merritt, secretary of the Georgia Baptist Convention, who will retire Dec. 31, will be among the speakers.

The association will meet Wednesday at 10 a.m. at the Woodland Hills Baptist Church.

Five new Baptist churches in the Atlanta area have applied for membership in the association. They are New Hope Baptist Church, near Ben Hill, the Rev. Leon Piper, pastor; Maranatha Baptist Church, near Bolton, the Rev. Henry G. Hewatt, pastor; North Clayton Baptist Church, near College Park, the Rev. Royce Smith, pastor; Stamps Chapel in East Atlanta, the Rev. Charles S. Callahan, pastor, and Wieuca Road Baptist Church, the Rev. Dick Boeke, assistant pastor.

Officials said 128 churches with 104,276 members are now represented in the association.

BATTEY HOSPITAL'S ROLE

Drugs Cut TB Treatment Time

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of three articles about Battey State Hospital and its role in tuberculosis control in Georgia.

'by KATHERINE BARNWELL
Constitution Staff Writer

ROME, Oct. 18—Three drugs used in the treatment of tuberculosis at Battey State Hopital are producing "highly encouraging" results, doctors here report.

The three—given separately or in combinations of two—are streptomycin, isoniazid or "INAH" and PAS.

Dr. Raymond Corpe, superintendent of Battey, said administration of these drugs can bring about "remarkable" improvement in most TB patients.

Dr. Corpe said "practically all patients" are given some drug therapy.

IMPROVEMENT

He said the combinations usually given are streptomycin and PAS or INAH and PAS. Although both combinations appear to be about equally effective, Dr. Corpe said the latter is used most often at Battey because INAH and PAS can be given by mouth.

Frequent benefits of the drugs include conversion of the patient's sputum from positive to negative, improvement in the lung area as shown by X-ray, weight gains and general clinical progress.

Battey is carrying on an active clinical research program in which 22 tuberculosis sanitoria in the country are co-operating under the sponsorship of the U.S. Public Health Service. The program is designed to help doctors evaluate the various anti-TB drugs.

Dr. Corpe said several hundred patients at Battey are "on study" and monthly reports on them are forwarded to the Public Health Service in Washington. Besides streptomycin, PAS and INAH, the research study at Battey includes a new drug, pyrazinamide.

Reports from other hospitals indicate that pyrazinamide does produce benefits in TB patients, Dr. Corpe said, but doctors at Battey have "not had enough experience with the drug to evaluate it."

TIME CUT

Dr. Corpe summed up:

"By and large, the length of the patient's hospitalization at Battey is diminished as a result of drug therapy."

He said the average length of hospitalization of patients who were at Battey last year was about 450 days. However, many patients must stay much longer, he pointed out.

Although drug therapy has proved extremely valuable in treating tuberculosis, Dr. Corpe said he still considers bed rest and diet "the basis of treatment."

He said surgery, collapse measures and the educational program also are important at Battey.

Dr. Corpe estimated that 12 per cent of all patients discharged have had major thoracic surgery. This surgery includes removal of all or part of the patient's lung.

A patient who follows the prescribed regimen during and after his stay at Battey State Hospital has an excellent chance of having his tuberculosis arrested, doctors here say. The prospect of the individual TB patient given adequate treatment is described as "bright."

NEXT: What services are provided patients at Battey.

Moore Gives Up European Duties

Bishop Arthur J. Moore has turned over leadership of Methodist activities in central and southern Europe and North Africa to a 52-year-old Swiss clergyman.

Moore, who is Methodist bishop of Atlanta, presided over the consecration of Bishop Ferdinand Sigg of Zurich at ceremonies Sunday in Brussels, Belgium.

Sigg becomes presiding bishop of the Methodist Church in Switzerland, Belgium, Austria, North Africa, Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, Hungary and Poland, a responsibility which was Bishop Moore's for the past two years in addition to his Georgia charge.

Bishop Moore is expected back in Atlanta on Nov. 1.

Phony Army Officer Admits Check Charge

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 18 (AP)—Police said a Minnesota parole violator, arrested for impersonating an Army officer, admitted he passed $7,000 in worthless checks over the nation since June.

Harold Kaufman, 27, of New York, was captured at a tourist court after he fled from a downtown hotel where a Regular Army colonel spotted him as a phony and tried to arrest him, police said.

Detectives John Meredith and John Grosch Jr. said Kaufman told them he violated parole in Minnesota where he was serving two to 20 years for forgery of $11,000 in bad checks.

EVERY MAN IS HIS OWN PRIEST

by Nat G. Long
Superintendent, Atlanta East District
The Methodist Church

When Martin Luther declared that every man is his own priest, he announced the supreme principle of Protestantism.

As a priest in the Roman Catholic Church Luther engaged in many works to save his own soul. He read the Scriptures, prayed, observed the sacraments, went on pilgrimages, and underwent severe discipline. None of this brought salvation.

Finally, he had the good sense to cease striving to save himself. He began to meditate upon the love of God revealed in Christ. He threw himself with utter abandon upon God. He trusted not his own merits, but the grace of Christ. Into his heart came a sense of forgiveness, a profound peace, an unutterable joy. He had been saved not by the machinery of the church, not by his own good works, but by his faith in Christ.

Luther's personal experience ran counter to Roman Catholic belief. His church had insisted that salvation came to men through the sacraments, and that sacraments must be administered by ordained priests. This meant that without the priest there was no salvation. If a man needed forgiveness, he must go to a priest. If he wanted comfort in the midst of his sorrows, he must go to a priest. If he wanted strength to meet death, he must send for a priest. Because some officials of a certain city offended the Pope, he ordered the priests to take away the sacraments from all the citizens. This doctrine robbed the individual of his religious liberty. The church stood between him and salvation. Luther's experience of God's saving grace made all of this seem ridiculous. No priest had been necessary to mediate to him the transforming power of Christ.

Luther repudiated the Roman Catholic belief. He insisted that no human agency, not even the church, can stand between a man and his God. Every man can approach God himself. He needs no ecclesiastical machinery. Every man, by throwing himself with utter abandon upon God's grace, can find forgiveness, peace, power.

Luther thus wrested from a tyrannical church this principle of the priesthood of all believers. It is the very basis of the Protestant Reformation. It is the inspiration of democracy. It is the foundation stone of the Kingdom of God. It is the source of all our precious liberties.

State Cuts To Equalize Pay to Aged

The recent increase in Social Security payments is not going to mean very much to Georgia's old folks who also receive old-age assistance.

Director Alan Kemper of the State Welfare Department today said that the aged in the state who now draw from both agencies will not receive the increase of about $5. Federal law, he pointed out, makes a similar cut in the old-age assistance check mandatory.

Kemper explained that when a person applies for old-age benefits the state sets up a budget for the applicant. From this, all of the applicant's income of any type and including Social Security, is deducted. Then the state pays what it is able under the Welfare department's appropriation.

FOUR ATLANTA FIREMEN INJURED AS TWO FIRE TRUCKS COLLIDE
Cancelled Alarm Blamed for Wreck at Pryor and Richardson Streets

Crash of Fire Trucks Hurts 4 After Recall of One Unit

Four firemen were injured slightly Monday in a crash of two fire trucks at Pryor and Richardson streets, SW, police said.

Ptl. C. L. Queen and W. R. Stewart said both vehicles were ordered out to answer a fire call on Pryor street.

The call for one fire truck, driven south on Pryor by John Coleman Morison, 29, of Station 19, was canceled by radio, patrolmen said. Morison accordingly turned off his siren and red light.

While Morison was crossing Richardson street on a green light, another fire truck from Station 10 driven by Charlie Frank Jones, 45, whose call was not canceled entered the intersection traveling east on Richardson, patrolmen said.

The truck driven by Jones rammed into the side of that operated by Morison, patrolmen said.

Patrolmen booked no charges.

Security Has Its Price, Haake Tells Kiwanians

By BOB SIBLEY

Nations seeking security at the expense of their citizens freedom finally destroy themselves in the futile quest, Dr. Alfred P. Haake, special consultant for General Motors, told Georgia Kiwanians Monday at the organization's state convention in Atlanta.

Dr. Haake, Park Ridge, Ill., traveler and lecturer, cited ancient Rome as an example.

Dr. Haake

"Rome lasted 1,500 years, but degenerated from the mistress of the world to a conglomeration of weaklings, their stamina destroyed by the paternalism of a welfare state," he said.

The Kiwanis Fellowship Luncheon speaker declared: "We have seen in the United States a change from principle to expediency as the basis for public policy, with glorification of secularism and materialism at the expense of moral and spiritual values.

"And the lure that drew us into that yawning chasm has been the hope of something-for-nothing relief from individual responsibility for our well-being."

MUST EARN SECURITY

Dr. Haake said this country can have security, but only as the United States makes itself worthy and earns that security. "The price of security is the building of character through faith, loyalty and service," he concluded.

Joe Shaw of Atlanta, founder of the Kiwanis Legion of Honor—25-year members—recognized more than 30 Georgians who have been members for 25 years.

Presenting a musical program at the luncheon was the Newton High School sextette, under the direction of Mrs. Alcie Penick. Members were Emily Eady, Florence Fowler, Connie Goodrich, Patricia McGuire, Carol Sammons and Flora Wells.

GREGORY PRESIDES

District Gov. William A. Gregory of Griffin presided over the meeting with Dr. Harry A. Fifield, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Atlanta, giving the invocation.

John J. Flynt Jr. of Griffin, congressman-nominate from the Fourth Congressional District, will speak on "America and Her Foreign Policy" Tuesday at 11 a.m., with Dr. "Scotty" Young of the Atlanta Division, University of Georgia, discussing "Why I Am an American" at the Tuesday luncheon.

Other convention speakers have included Simon M. Davidian, Near East expert and pastor of the Christian Church in Tallahassee, Fla.; Albert J. Tully, Kiwanis International representative from Mobile, and Leo Aikman, columnist for The Atlanta Constitution.

James Wight, Cairo Leader, Is Dead at 64

James Slater Wight, 64, brother of the late Ward Wight, Atlanta real estate man, and prominent Cairo businessman, agriculturalist and church leader, died Monday in a hospital in Thomasville after a short illness.

He was a native of Cairo, and a graduate of Emory College at Oxford and Cornell University graduate school. He was a former president of the Citizens Bank in Cairo, and served as treasurer of the South Georgia Methodist Conference.

He is survived by his wife, the former Miss Azalee Moor of Tallahassee, Fla.; four daughters, Clifton Wight, Girl Scout directress at Aiken, S.C.; Mrs. W. J. Hinson of Macon; Laleah Wight of Miami, and Azalee Wight of Cairo; a son, James Slater Wight Jr.; four brothers, Robert Wight of Cairo; Warren Wight of Thomasville; Edward Wight of Berkeley, Calif., and John Wight of Cairo, and a sister, Mrs. W. F. MacIntyre of Thomasville.

Funeral services will be held at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday at Cairo Methodist Church. Burial will be in Cairo Cemetery.

State May Help Buy Stone Mtn.

Gov. Talmadge will be asked to launch construction of a State Highway Building Annex and help buy Stone Mountain before the administration bows out in January.

The State Office Building Authority will meet at 9 a.m. Tuesday to consider a request to construct a four-story annex to the Highway Building. The authority, now building a $9,800,000 Judicial-Labor-Office Building, has a balance of $2,200,000 it can use for the highway annex.

Members of the authority are Gov. Talmadge, Lt.-Gov. Marvin Griffin, Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook, Chief Justice W. H. Duckworth, and State Auditor B. E. Thrasher Jr.

The State Park Commission will meet Wednesday to decide the fate of the Stone Mountain State Park development. An option for DeKalb County to purchase the mountain will expire Dec. 31, so action would have to be taken by the Talmadge administration.

Gov. Talmadge said Monday he is sympathetic toward developing the memorial, and that he will meet with the Park Commission. The mountain is privately-owned and DeKalb is seeking state aid for its purchase. Talmadge said he has been withholding funds from the project to see whether finances would be in good shape at the end of his administration.

Monday, Talmadge said he will leave the greatest balance in the treasury at the end of his term that any governor has ever left. However, he warned that the increasing state spending will cause the next administration to face a crisis.

Gov.-Nominate Griffin had no comment on Talmadge's financial predictions or on the idea of developing the mountain.

3rd Army's Charity Drive 'On Target'

Third Army personnel at Fort McPherson Monday stamped "Mission Accomplished" on "Operation Charity" as totals in the drive soared past $35,000.

The sum, which represents the equivalent of one day's pay for all military and civilian personnel at the base, will be used for national and community agencies, as well as the Army Emergency Relief Fund and post charities.

As H(e!pfulnes) hour, 10 a.m. Monday, drew near, Commanding Gen. A. R. Bolling's field tent took on the air of battle headquarters.

Gen. Bolling took phone calls reporting that various sections had gone over the top, and charted the areas on a CPX Situation Map.

Directors of the charity drive were Brig. Gen. Louis W. Truman; Col. Herbert L. Nelson, chairman; Lt. Col. W. H. McNaul, vice chairman; Hammond B. Smith, vice chairman, and E. W. Norman, executive secretary.

Climaxing the event was the announcement that Col. W. G. Meyer, finance officer, was the "Mystery Man from Mars." Since several correct guesses were made, a second contest will have to be held to determine the final winner of a trip to Florida.

'Flowerless' First Wins At Roswell Garden Show

By YOLANDE GWIN

Saying it with flowers is the general idea at garden club shows.

But one woman dabbed cotton balls on some driftwood and won a blue ribbon up at Roswell during the weekend.

Mrs. Lester Davis of the Four Seasons Garden Club won the invitation class, "Old Black Joe" when the Roswell Garden Club staged its first show at the Roswell Presbyterian Church.

In addition to the wood and cotton, Mrs. Davis also used a small doll to represent Old Black Joe. So did the second and third place winners, Mrs. R. H. Johns and Mrs. Marshall Lane of the Laurel Garden Club and Mrs. E. W. Quinn of the Woodbine Club, all of Atlanta.

SAME CLASS

Mrs. Sara Crymes of the Town and Country Club, also from Atlanta, got narry a nod from the judges for her beautiful arrangement featuring yellow chrysanthemums, entered in the same class.

Roswell Club members went all out to make the show the success it was.

Teen-agers wearing hoop skirts and off-the-shoulder dresses served punch to the hundreds of visitors surging through the church's recreation hall. Their usually fair skins were a purplish blue due to the drop in temperature!

A flower show was a new and novel event for the famous old church, organized in 1839, where Martha Bullock married Theodore Roosevelt in 1853 and where some of General Sherman's troops took over in 1864 and used as a hospital.

Friday it was taken over by an army of green thumbers.

TOP SPEED

Roswell women let their imaginations run at top speed when they planned their arrangements for the show. Like Mrs. William Crowe who won a blue ribbon for her table centered with an iron frying pan filled with flowers and fruit.

Mrs. J. Lee Hopping, true to her name, was hopping all over the place in her excitement over winning tri-color ribbon of the Garden Club of Georgia for her entry, "A Hunt Dinner at Bullock Hall." She had a pair of pheasants peeping out of some dried material on a brown burlap covered table.

Blue ribbon victory smiles were worn by Mrs. George Polatte for her "Grandmother's Parlor Table;" Mrs. L. A. Whitehead for her "Sunday Worship;" Mrs. Edgar Pinson of Sandy Springs for her entry in "When You and I Were Young Maggie" class, and Mrs. A. H. Comer of Marietta for her "Last Rose of Summer" entry. The "last rose" was pink and in a milk bottle painted green to match the rose stem.

Medical Forum for Women To Be Presented Here

"The Trouble With Women," a medical forum led by four of Atlanta's well-known physicians, will be presented at 10:45 a.m., Nov. 4, at the Academy of Medicine, 875 West Peachtree St.

Open to women only, the forum will be conducted as a panel discussion of intimate and often misunderstood problems of today's women.

Gynecologists and obstetricians who will be panel members are:

Dr. John McCain, Dr. Charles Upshaw, Dr. John Ridley and Dr. Marion T. Benson Jr.

The Women's Auxiliary to the Fulton County Medical Society is sponsoring the forum.

Doctors on the panel will discuss both medical and emotional problems of the feminine sex. Questions of tensions, menopause and childlessness will be presented.

Mrs. Shelley Davis, president of the Woman's Auxiliary, Medical Association of Georgia, will serve as moderator.

There will be no admission charge.

Brocade Best For After Five

Speaking of after-five dresses as I did in connection with theater coats, the great American fashion of the cocktail dress is spreading all over the world just as the great American cocktail habit has done.

Even in Paris where the smartest women have always worn little black suits to dine out in the evening, the cocktail dress has become an important fashion.

Latest Paris fashion for these is brocade—in handsome designs reminiscent of the eighteenth century, or in splendid Persian or East Indian patterns.

Opera Celebrities To Be Feted Here

With the presence of opera stars, Rise Stevens and Eleanor Steber, the former's husband, Walter Suroby, and the latter's parents added to the list of guests, the Atlanta Music Club's luncheon on Wednesday for members of the press, radio and television bids fair to be one of the season's most interesting affairs.

Taking advantage of the gala occasion, members of Mrs. William E. Mansfield's class in music appreciation have made reservations for three tables. This group of music lovers meets every Monday morning for a six-week period in the fall and again in the spring to study symphonic music under Mrs. Mansfield's direction.

Mrs. Thomas N. Guffin will narrate the skit written by Mrs. Mason Lowance which will be presented by the Opera Arts Assn. Mrs. Alex C. King, music club president, will serve as official hostess.

DR. AND MRS. LON GROVE and their daughter, Mrs. Claiborne Glover Jr., have returned from a week's visit to New York.

DR. JACK FULLILOVE and Dr. Allen Lesarge have returned to Baltimore after spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tompkins at their West Wesley road residence.

The Atlantans met their guests, who were formerly attached to the American Hospital in Paris, during their recent visit to Mr. and Mrs. Eric Coupey in the French capital. The doctors will intern at Baltimore hospitals.

SIR HUGH FOOT, governor of Jamaica, who is in the city to address the English Speaking Union, will be central figure Wednesday evening when Mr. and Mrs. Francis Dwyer entertain at dinner at their home on Pine Valley road.

Invited to meet the honor guest are friends of the hosts who are active in the English Speaking Union.

MR. AND MRS. VINCENT DOBBS left Sunday for New York where they are guests for a week at the New Weston Hotel.

MRS. EVERETT BROWN of Ft. Lauderdale, who with Mr. Brown is spending some time at the Georgian Terrace, left Monday for Birmingham where she joined her sister, Mrs. A. L. Weatherford of Tuscaloosa, at the home of their cousin, Mrs. Frank Watson. After a brief visit to Mrs. Watson, Mrs. Brown will accompany Mrs. Weatherford home for a visit.

FAMILY TRIO—Among Atlanta's most popular young matrons is Mrs. Vincent Dobbs who poses with her young daughter, Lydia, and her baby son, Vincent Jr. Mrs. Dobbs is the former Matilda Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Martin.

THE SON BORN SATURDAY at Piedmont Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. Simms III has been named Arthur Benjamin IV. Mrs. Simms is the former Jane Griffin.

A MICHIGAN VISITOR expected Thursday is Mrs. Walter Kull of Saginaw who will be the guest for 10 days at the Dellwood drive home of Mrs. Samuel A. Johnson and her sister, Mrs. David Bagshaw. Mrs. Bagshaw formerly lived in Saginaw.

On Friday Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Bagshaw will entertain at cocktails for their guest. Mrs. Kull is a prominent member of the Saginaw League of Women Voters and is particularly interested in good government.

DR. AND MRS. HAKAN STERKY of Stockholm, Sweden, were honor guests at the buffet supper at which Mr. and Mrs. Earl Schooley were hosts Sunday evening at their Stovall boulevard residence, with 30 guests invited to meet them.

Dr. Sterky is Director General of the Swedish Administration of Telecommunications. With Mrs. Sterky, he is in this country for a visit of several weeks, the party on Sunday climaxing a two-day trip through Georgia.

LEAVING TUESDAY for New York are Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Robards who will be guests for a week at the Hotel Astor.

MR. AND MRS. ORRIN ROBERTS motored to Atlanta from their home in Monroe to attend the birthday dinner given for Mr. Roberts by their son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James McM Roberts, at their home on Habersham road.

Alpha Chi Alumnae Dinner Meet

Alpha Chi Omega Alumnae will celebrate Founders Day at a dinner meeting Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Carl DeLay, 2219 Fairhaven Cir.

Both morning and evening groups will participate. Plans will be made for the groundbreaking ceremony for the new Beta Sigma chapter house to be built at 1064 S. Lumpkin St., Athens.

Alpha Chi Omega was founded at DePauw University, Oct. 15, 1885. There are now 79 active chapters in colleges and universities throughout the U.S.

Officers of the Atlanta chapter are:

Mrs. Peter Wright, president; Mrs. Eugene Craig, recording secretary; Mrs. Oscar Wiseley, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Walter C. Davis, treasurer.

All Atlanta alumnae are invited to attend the dinner meeting. For reservations contact Mrs. Wright or Mrs. DeLay.

Miss Beall Wed to Mr. Timmons

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Beall of 2265 Sutton St., announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Marianne Beall, to Franklin Gillette Timmons, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Timmons of Daytona Beach, Fla.

The ceremony took place at Kirkwood Methodist Church, with the Rev. Foster Young officiating.

The bride attended the Atlanta Division of the University of Georgia.

Mr. Timmons attended Purdue University. He and his bride will reside in their new home at Daytona Beach.

Perfume That Clings

Q.—Dear Penny: I adore perfume, but for some reason or other its fragrance just does not last on me. I want a new perfume, but first I must find out about a lasting one. —Mrs. J. M.

A—A particularly good idea for women who claim that perfume does not "stay with them" is Chantilly Liquid Skin Sachet. It smooths on the skin very easily and lingers on and, on because of its Sachet base. The Chantilly fragrance really "clings" to you. I'm sure you'll love it! Get the original Liquid Skin Sachet, Chantilly by Houbigant, "the perfume that clings." Only $1.85 plus tax.

Liberty-Guinn Tour Planned Wednesday

Liberty-Guinn School PTA is sponsoring a tour of Northside homes Wednesday from 2 to 5 p.m.

The W. W. Rushton home at 3439 Tuxedo Rd., NW, is French Norman architecture with Louis XV interiors. A modern den, designed by Mrs. Rushton, contrasts with the French.

The home of Mrs. Ralph McGill, 3399 Piedmont Rd., NE, is furnished in Victorian style except for the Early American kitchen.

Mrs. V. J. Lisenby's home on Powers Ferry road, NW, once a dairy barn, has been remodeled into a functional modern house."

A "honeymoon cottage" planned for informal living is the home of Mrs. John C. Mathews, 1037 Davis Dr., NW.

Fresh and dried flower arrangements will be on display in each of the homes.

Mrs. Hubert Blackwell is general chairman of the tour.

Junior hostesses from the 7th grade at Liberty-Guinn will escort visitors through the houses. A group of 7th grade boys will direct traffic.

Taylor, Shepherd Vows Told

DUBLIN, Oct. 18—The marriage of Mrs. Lottie Harrison Taylor to Marshall Carr Shepherd of McRae was solemnized at the Shepherd lodge near McRae, with the Rev. William Bassil of Dublin officiating in the presence of relatives and friends.

Mrs. Ouida Spell of Dublin was matron of honor and the only attendant for her sister. W. Scott Shepherd of Ludowici was his brother's best man. Clarence F. Lloyd of Dublin gave the bride in marriage.

After the ceremony a buffet supper was served. Mrs. H. Scott Shepherd received the guests. Mrs. R. J. Smith of Charlotte, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Spell assisted in entertaining.

Mrs. Shepherd has been active in the affairs of Christ Episcopal Church of Dublin, the Red Cross and the Oconee Chapter of UDC.

Mr. Shepherd, widely known in the lumber industry, is president of the Shepherd Lumber Corp. He and his bride are residing in McRae.

Machine Age ---Nice Too

A little country living, like a little learning, can be a dangerous thing. You can get so enamored of the primitive state that you forget all about the pitfalls and terrors it used to hold for people.

We were up at Holly Creek cabin for the weekend and as usual I was completely enchanted by everything my eyes fell upon, my ears heard or my nose smelled. The sound of a hoot owl in the night struck me with a fresh delight. The sight of the sourwood trees reddening on the mountain slope was just about the prettiest thing I ever saw.

And when Muv decided the three-legged iron spider by the hearth was the perfect place to cook crackling bread, I marveled that anybody had ever bothered to invent stoves and fancy pots and pans. Why, an iron spider and a fireplace full of fragrant dogwod logs slowly turning to deep red coals . . . who could ask for anything more?

Of course, the crackling bread—thin crisp cakes rich with cracklings—was a poem in itself, especially when united with big steaming bowls of vegetable soup which had been simmering on the back of the stove all morning.

But then a friend of ours came to see us and got to talking of old days and old ways in the mountains. He was a member of a big family and once his folks decided to leave the hill country and try their luck in the flat fertile fields of south Georgia.

"There was five of us young 'uns when we left but the typhoid fever took off the baby soon after we got there," he recalled. "There was lots of typhoid then—in south Georgia and in the mountians, too, but we had ours in south Georgia and of course that turned us agin the place. Everyone of us down in the bed sick at once and fodder to pull and farm work going on just the same.

"I'll never forget how it seemed—a dreary, sickly place. Mama and Papa was mighty low and downhearted. And we had a old dog—kind of greyhound looking dog, rangy and thin and a bluish color. He'd git up soon of a morning and stand in the yard and raise up his head and howl in the most mournful way you ever heard. And while he was standing there howling a big cloud of mosquitoes would surround him and he'd take off down the road running and howling.

"One morning he done that and I can see Papa now. He had a way of clearing up his throat and he set there that morning listening to that dog and all of a sudden he cleared his throat, 'Aaa-humm,' and he said, 'Damn a place a dog can't even stay at!'

"That was the day we moved. We loaded up the wagon and took up the children, sick as they was with the typhoid, and we headed back to the mountains."

For the first time the old days and the old ways lost some of their charm for me. The poignant little story of the family, homesick and ill, made me see too clearly how it was with that mother. She did all her cooking on iron pots over the hearth and that was all right. But there was "the typhoid"—a horrible, death-dealing sickness she knew nothing about and could only fight blindly and watch hopelessly as it took off her baby.

For once I was inclined to count a few machine-age blessings.

DAILY GUIDE—The aspects now suggest that excesses of any kind are going to be costly. Speculation or a false boom will be in danger of collapse.

Atomic power will surely be in the headlines. Some unusual discoveries, erratic changes or surprise moves can be expected. Strikes may be one of the upsetting factors. Personally, this is not a week for taking any chances. When the general aspects are so drastic one should be alert in one's personal affairs, avoiding hasty words or actions.

Breaking off of personal relationships at this time could cause unmendable rifts. Take extra care in moving around and in handling things to avoid accidents.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, LIBRA! Don't act hastily, but do try to solve any problems through decisive, wise action; no more sitting on the fence!

Civil Defense Program Set

Examples of civil defense will be displayed and enacted at the East Lake School PTA meeting, Tuesday at 8 p.m.

Mobile rescue and communication units of the Civil Defense Authority will be open for inspection by the parents.

For the program, sixth graders will make a model shelter and will exhibit the supplies and equipment essential for this shelter. They will also demonstrate various first aid techniques.

Jack Grantham will talk on civil defense.

In conjunction with this program, the school is setting up a first aid station which will be used as a model for this type of installation for the entire city.

Tech Wives To Be Guests at Thursday Tea

Wives of new members of the Georgia Tech faculty will be honor guests Thursday at a tea given by the Georgia Tech Woman's Club.

The tea will be held from 3 to 5 p.m., in the home of Mrs. Blake R. Van Leer, 292 10th St., Northwest.

Executive board members for 1954-55 will act as hostesses.

Georgia Avenue PTA Meeting

The Georgia Avenue PTA will meet Tuesday at 2:30 p.m.

Mrs. E. E. Porterfield, civil defense chairman of the Atlanta Council PTA, will speak on "Safety and Civil Defense."

Benteen PTA Meeting Set

Benteen School PTA will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the school auditorium.

Program will be a panel discussion of "We Grow in Our Safety and Health Needs."

1812 Daughters Plan Meeting On Friday

The state executive board of the United States Daughters of 1812 will meet Friday at 10:30 a.m. at the Atlanta Woman's Club.

Announcement will be made of new officers appointed to fill unexpired terms. New rulings of the national executive board will be presented.

National officers who will attend the state board meeting are:

Mrs. Thomas J. Sappington, chaplain; Mrs. Lucius W. McConnell, honorary president, and Miss Helen Estes, honorary vice president for Georgia.

Luncheon will be served at 1 p.m. For reservations contact Miss Clara M. McConnell, 87 Peachtree way, NE.

RADIO REVIEW

by DIXIE BEST

RADIO THEATER has an exciting presentation coming up this evening—a radio version of the movie sensation "David and Bathsheba." Time is 9 to 10 tonight on WSB Radio.

Lovely Arlene Dahl will star in the role of the wife who was coveted by David. Richard Burton will take the part of the King.

The Radio Theater, which has been bringing to radio the finest in dramatic entertainment since the first broadcast on October 14, 1934, began on the old NBC Blue Network which was later disbanded. The series moved from New York to Hollywood in 1936 so that screen stars would be more readily available for radio appearances. Marlene Dietrich and Clark Gable starred in the first broadcast from the coast—"The Legionnaire and the Lady."

CRUCIAL MOMENT in the contest for a trip around the world comes tonight at 8 on WSB Radio's "People Are Funny" show. Contestants vying for the trip both happen to be Los Angeles school teachers. One is a widow with five children who has never been farther from home than Salt Lake City. The other is a father of three who has never been farther than Portland, Ore.

Art Linkletter will send another contestant out to catch a thief—and the selling abilities of an auto salesman will be put to an amazing test.

WENDY DREW, who is heard in the starring role on the daily drama, "Young Widder Brown" (Monday through Friday at 4:30) had better move over to make room for another star in the family. Wendy's younger sister, Allegra Kent, is a dancer with the New York City Center Ballet—and recently had the distinction of being picked by three prominent national magazines for a picture story of her work in the new ballet, "Ivesiana."

HOPE

HOPE RETURNETH! Yes, we're jumping the gun a little with this revelation, just like the Hollywood columnists—but we thought it would brighten your life to know that Bob Hope will be back with us on October 28. This season, his laugh show will be a Thursday night feature of the Voice of the South and Bob will have his old standbys: Margaret Whiting as featured vocalist, Bill Goodwin as announcer, and Les Brown with his Band of Renown.

Hope himself is one of the brightest stars in the WSB Radio crown and one of the most popular entertainers Georgians have ever given their hearts to. He makes a wonderful addition to the brilliant lineup of fall attractions.

STARS IN TV PLAY
Natalie Wood

Plot at School For Girls Is Play Feature

An exclusive school for girls in a suburban community is the setting for the Studio 57 presentation of "The Plot Against Miss Pomeroy" at 10:30 p.m. on WSB-TV.

The story concerns the daughter of a wealthy and influential businessman and her attempt to upset school routine and dominate the faculty.

Their sense of responsibility finally causes the businessman and daughter to "find" themselves—but only after delicate handling of a tense situation by Miss Pomeroy.

Natalie Wood stars as the wealthy girl and Julie Byron plays Miss Pomeroy.

Adoption Solution Is Feature on 'Home'

A special film of Rev. and Mrs. Carl Doss and their family will be shown on Home at 11 a.m. on WSB-TV. The family consists of 12 adopted children, each of whom was considered "unadoptable" because of mixed racial background.

Other features to be introduced by hostess Arlene Francis will include fashion editor Carrie McCord in a demonstration of make-it-yourself maternity clothes and the first of a series of pickups depicting regional cooking, "Cooking in California."

VARIETY

Lilly Dache, noted hat designer who is in Atlanta to make a hat for the Community Fund Red Feather campaign, will be a special guest on Housewives Corner, featuring Roy McMillan.—WSB-Radio at 2 p.m.

Mrs. Rhoda Kaufman, who is in charge of the United Nations Information Center at Davison's, will discuss her work during the Kitchen Klub Show.—WSB-Radio at 9:05 a.m.

Critic and newspaperman Harnett Kane, author of such books as "New Orleans Woman" and "Louisiana Hayride," will be guest of honor on Twenty Questions, with Jay Jackson as moderator.—Channel 11 at 8:30 p.m.

Charlie Welsh will dedicate his program to the "jazz school of music" when he plays George Shearing's "I Only Have Eyes for You" and "There's a Lull In My Life." Sarah Vaughn's recording of "Black Coffee" will be featured.—WSB-Radio at 11:15 p.m.

Singing star Anna Marie Alberghetti and Red Skelton present a modern comedy version of Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet" during the Skelton Show. The pretty singer also will offer two vocal selections.—Channel 5 at 8 p.m.

Jo Stafford will offer her vocal interpretation of Perry Como's latest RCA-Victor hit, "Papa Loves Mambo," and three Western folk tunes—"Bury Me Not," "Chisholm" and "Home On the Range" during her song session.—Channel 5 at 7:45 p.m.

GARDENING

Charles Hudson and Don Hastings Jr. will present a discussion and demonstration on treating peach trees and other stone fruits for borer control, emphasizing the importance of spraying during the Successful Gardening Show.—Channel 2 at 7 p.m.

DRAMA

Ronald Colman, Academy Award winner, and his actress wife, Benita Hume Colman, appear on television as stars of the amusing comedy series, The Halls of Ivy. The stories are based on the career of a college president.—Channel 5 at 8:30 p.m.

The Biblical story, "David and Bathsheba," will co-star Arlene Dahl and Richard Burton during the Lux Radio Theater.—WSB-Radio at 9 p.m.

Dan Barton and Betty Lynn will star in the amusing tale about a young man who raffles off his services as a workman for one year in order to raise a stake that will enable him to leave his small Western pioneer town for the big city. The play is entitled "The Man Who Sold Himself."—Channel 2 at 9 p.m.

Berle Has TV Diet Trouble

Comic-actor Fred Clarke and vocalist Gloria deHaven will be guest stars with Milton Berle and his troupe on WSB-TV at 8 p.m.

During the full-hour comedy show, Berle's manager, played by Clarke, reminds him of a clause in his contract which forbids the comedian to weigh more than 175 pounds during the TV season.

Berle weighs in and decides to go on a strenuous diet, during which he is aided and abetted by Clarke, Miss deHaven, Max, Berle's secretary (Ruthie Gilbert), Marlene (Nancy Walker), president of the one-member "Milton Berle Fan Club," and NBC stagehand Francis (Arnold Stang).

'Star Is Born' Colored Just Right

NEW YORK, Oct. 18—TV color show producers might study "A Star Is Born" technique. Director George Cukor, instead of using huge gobs of color, insisted on pastel shades, easy on the eyes and not distracting from the performances. . . . TV has been using color backgrounds that yank attention away from actors, plot and everything else, as indicated by the flop of the "spectaculars."

The fact that critics raved about Judy Garland and James Mason, hardly mentioned the color tints of "A Star Is Born," is the greatest tribute to Cukor's fine taste.

Packaged in Okinawan cricket cages, 115 sterling silver mementos distributed by Maurice Evans and George Schaefer, "Teahouse of the August Moon" producers, to cast and crew of their hit on its first ann'y. . . . Charlie Chaplin Jr. and Susan Cooke to marry before Christmas.

Director Curt Bernhardt and Joan Greenwood serious. . . . Arleen Whelan and Hugh Owen dating. . . . At the Harwyn, Greg Bautzer with Audrey Meadows. . . . Jane Powell and Pat Nerney to honeymoon in Europe. . . . Lionel Hampton, sailing, adding four concerts in Israel to his five-month tour. . . . Mabel Wayne and her ex, Nick Campbell, dating again. . . . Robert Q. Lewis saw it on a Harvard shoe shine stand: "Pedal habiliments artistically lubricated and illuminated with ambidextrous facility for infinitesmal remuneration of two shilling."

Lovely Trini Reyes, flamenco star, and Judge Irving Saypol's son, Roger, at Cerutti's. . . . Phil Silvers and Geene Courtney resumed. . . . Joni James' screen test at Metro sensational. . . . Janet Leigh's ear infection upsets her balance.

John Steinbeck, vacationing on the Rivera, shaved off his mustache, has to grow it back because his wife insisted.

WRCA-TV offering Katharine Hepburn $65,000 for a one-shot. . . . Sheilah Connolly, who is decorating Guy Madison's new home, will marry him. . . . Faye Emerson, still friendly with the Roosevelt clan, taking after theater supper with Anne Roosevelt, John's wife. . . . Eleanor Parker and portrait painter Paul Clemens merge Thanksgiving Day.

John Wayne is Honolulu hosp with ear ailment. . . . Aly Khan's son, Karim, ailing. . . . Bob Schneider, of the Decca clan, engaged to Bobbie Harber. . . .

The Joe Kirkwood Jrs. have separated. . . . Following his divorce from Sonja Henie, Winthrop Gardiner expected to marry Beth Cobb. . . . Libby Holman off to Israel and India. . . . Two incoming shows, "The Rainmaker" and "The Traveling Lady," both started as TV dramas. . . . Dean Martin will be Vic Damone's best man when he marries Pier Angeli. . . . "If any more Italian actresses come to this country," says Bob Kennedy, "there'll be no one left in Italy but American actresses."

MARRIAGE THREATENED BY RENT REDUCTION

Allene Roberts, above, plays the role of Jean Barton in Adolphe Menjou's Favorite Story, "The Vacant Room"—a First National Bank presentation over WAGA-TV at 7:00 o'clock tonight. See what happens when a new owner lowers the rent in a Manhattan apartment building! Tenants suspect there's something fishy about this windfall, and begin an investigation of the building. In the basement they discover a mysterious locked door. Breaking into the room they find it vacant. However, the room holds the key to an explanation that overcomes a quarrel between Jean and her fiance—and sheds a new light on landlords.

Exports Cheering To Kaiser-Willys

By JIM MONTGOMERY
Constitution Business Editor

TOLEDO, Oct. 18—Kaiser-Willys remains the big question mark in America's automotive empire.

But the question is no longer whether or not this corporation—the first of the "Little Three" to merge—will produce 1955 models. A spokesman today verified earlier reports that Willys Motors, Inc., a subsidiary of Kaiser Motors Corp., is currently "tooling up" for its new models.

The "face-lifted" Willys, with a new grille and tail light assembly, is scheduled for public introduction before the end of this year. Some effects of the merger of these two firms last year will be apparent in the 1955 models—especially in the interiors.

The new Kaiser, which will remain about like this year's line mechanically and style-wise will probably be shown a week or two after the debut of its lower-priced "cousin."

There is some speculation here that at least one, and possibly two, of the three Willys models will be discontinued. If this happens, the "Lark" would probably be tagged out.

That would leave the status of the "Eagle" model uncertain, since a Willys official did make it known that the "Ace," top car in the line, would be produced.

The biggest unknown right now is just how big a share of the market Kaiser-Willys will be able to grab—or cling to—next year.

Compared to the Ford or General Motors share, it will, of course, be insignificant. But in view of the anticipated sales fight during the next 12 months, the answer to this question will be important.

Some industry sources point out that Kaiser-Willys will enter the 1955 market at a competitive disadvantage—the new models coming out of Toledo will have only a face-lift, while the majority of 1955 cars will be completely new.

LOWER-PRICE RANGES

And 1954 was not a banner year.

Combined Kaiser-Willys sales in the nine months just ended dipped to 35,000 from 67,000 in the first nine months of 1953, not a very encouraging basis for predicting sales in the months to come.

The company points out, however, that August turned up as its best sales month in a year. Another spokesman said the Kaiser-Willys dealer organization is growing, and will be better equipped to handle next year's sales fight.

On the plus side of the Kaiser-Willys ledger is its export business, which ranks fourth in the industry with 10 per cent of the total volume.

When its figure is trimmed to sales of truck and commercial vehicles such as the Jeep (exclusive of automobiles), K-W is third, behind only GM and Ford.

Illustrating this important segment of business is the fact that the company's export shipments in the first three-quarters of the curent year totaled 34,410, or nearly 5,000 units ahead of the same 1953 period. Automobiles accounted for only 20 per cent of the total, with Jeeps and other commercial vehicles taking a sizable portion.

Hickman Price Jr., who was named vice president in charge of sales for Willys Motors, Inc., today, estimated the company's total export business this year would be up 40 per cent dollar-wise from 1953.

Price, who previously headed the export operations only, said the company now operates 19 foreign assembly plants, and has 2,500 dealers and distributors in 133 foreign markets.

Edgar Kaiser, president of the auto combine, is touring South America in search of possible future plant locations.

The Big Kaiser-Willys plant in Toledo, which has not produced a car since June 30, is expected to be back in production before the end of October, and one spokesman said that 1955 Willys output would be "moving right along" next month.

A 25 per cent pickup in production of trucks, Jeeps and other utility vehicles kept the now 100-day-old auto plant shutdown from becoming too disastrous.

An official today said between 1,000 and 2,000 workers were dropped from the payroll in July. However, he added, there are more than 6,500 at work today.

To help lighten the burden, the auto workers local union has gone into the used car business and has a lot right at the plant entrance as well as showroom space at the plant itself.

More than one Toledoan has attributed a recent gain in the county's registrations to the extra push supplied by the "union businessmen."

The auto workers themselves are hoping that the company's growing export market, and at least a toe-hold in the domestic automobile sales business, will keep the Kaiser-Willys payroll on a firm footing.

K-W, like its five competitors, will be out to pick up some additional sales next year. But this company also realizes the going will be rough—especially with so many completely new cars in the field.

Beans, Corn Dip Sharply

CHICAGO, Oct. 18 (AP)—Soybeans and corn took a drubbing on the Board of Trade today but wheat turned in a surprisingly firm performance. There wasn't much price change in other cereals.

Weakness showed up in corn and soybeans right at the opening and they went through the entire session without working into a worthwhile rally. Final prices were at about the day's lows. Wheat opened easy and then started its lonely upward move.

Wheat closed 1¼-1¾ higher, corn 1½-2¼ lower, oats ¼-½ lower, rye ¼-½ lower, soybeans 6 to 7¾ lower and 4 to 12 cents lower to 28 cents a hundred pounds higher.

Fair weather over much of the Midwest over the weekend was the main reason for liquidation in soybeans. In addition, receipts of cash beans at some interior terminals were relatively large and France postponed scheduled buying of 430,000 bushels of soybeans.

Weakness in the cash market was a factor in the drop in yellow grain futures. Spot market prices lost ½ to 2 cents on receipts of 302 cars. Offerings of cash corn by the country were very large, bookings being placed at 390,000 bushels.

Banker Asks Sudden Death For Small Business Agency

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Oct. 18 (AP)—A New York banker today urged a quick death for the Federal Small Business Administration.

"In my judgment, we do not need the small business administration," said George Champion, senior vice president of Chase National Bank. "Nor do we need its guaranties. Yet we cannot talk this agency to death.

"We must kill it by deeds—by meeting our full responsibilities to small business . . ."

Champion called for elimination of the federal loan agency in a speech prepared for the annual meeting of the National Bank Division of the American Bankers Assn. The annual three-day ABA convention opened this morning with more than 6,000 bankers and their wives attending.

"The facts cleraly show that there is no real justification for the Small Business Administration," Champion said. "If a credit risk of a small business is unsound, it is not proper to saddle the taxpayers with it."

The high officer in one of the world's largest banks said owners of small businesses can get all the credit they need from private financial institutions.

The records of loans made by the Small Business Administration is added proof that it is unneeded, Champion said.

"Since its new start a year ago," he said, "the Small Business Administration has made total loans of only around 45 million. We all know this is but a drop in the bucket as compared with the billions in loans which our private banking system extends to small business each year."

Ward Stock List Available To Wolfson

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 (AP)—The forces of Louis E. Wolfson, who is seeking to win control of Montgomery Ward & Co., announced today that lawyers from the mail-order house have agreed to deliver the list of its stockholders without a court fight.

Counsel for the Wolfson-Montgomery Ward stockholders committee said the legal firm of White & Case, representing Montgomery Ward, had agreed to deliver the list.

The attorney said an order from New York State Supreme Court Justice Felix C. Benvenga asking Montgomery Ward to show cause why it should not deliver such a list to the Wolfson group already had been signed and was returnable in court tomorrow morning.

He added that in view of the agreement to deliver the list, court proceedings have been discontinued.

By telephone from Miami, Fla., Wolfson said:

"I am delighted to learn from counsel that Mr. (Sewell) Avery (board chairman of Montgomery Ward) and the Montgomery Ward board have acceded to our request to examine their shareholders' list without recourse to legal process. We will now be able to proceed with plans to communicate with the Montgomery Ward stockholders and keep them informed of our plans for improvement of the management of their company."

West To Concede 2 Changes In Plans for Arms Curb Talks

By THOMAS J. HAMILTON
New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Oct. 18—The United States, Great Britain, France and Canada agreed today to accept two of the four changes that the Soviet Union wants to make in a resolution calling for the revival of negotiations on disarmament and atomic control.

However, the Western Powers insisted upon changes in a Soviet amendment which, it was feared, might have prevented the United Nations Disarmament Commission from considering a U.S. proposal defining the powers of the proposed control authority.

Paul Martin, Canadian minister of national health and welfare, who introduced the resolution last week, presented the Western reply this morning to Andrei Y. Vishinsky, the Soviet representative. Vishinsky promised his reply in a day or so.

FRIENDLY ATMOSPHERE

The meeting took place in a friendly atmosphere, and Selwyn Lloyd, British minister of state, said this afternoon that it was "extremely probable" that the Soviet Union would join the four Western powers in sponsoring the resolution. Vishinsky had accepted a Western invitation to do so on condition that they accept the four Soviet amendments.

The United States, Britain and France are co-sponsors of the resolution, which also would request the disarmament commission to revive the subcommittee to which British-French and U.S. proposals on disarmament and atomic control were submitted last June.

The subcommittee consisted of the four Western powers plus the Soviet Union, and although the Western resolution does not settle the disagreements that have blocked progress during the last eight years, Soviet endorsement would improve the psychological atmosphere.

REJECTED PROPOSALS

In June the Soviet Union rejected the British-French proposals, under which the prohibition of atomic weapons would not take effect until after the first phases of the reduction in non-atomic weapons had been satisfactorily carried out, as well as the U.S. proposals. The U.S. plan provides for an inspection system with agents who could go where and when they liked in checking on compliance.

Last month the Soviet Union suddenly accepted the British-French proposals as the basis for an international disarmament treaty or convention, but it has remained adamant in opposing the key provisions of the U.S. proposals

The principal amendment proposed by Vishinsky would request the disarmament commission to take into account the British-French and Soviet proposals, and would delete the request that the commission take into account other proposals—including those of the United States.

The Western counter-proposal, which it is believed meets both these possible Soviet claims, would request the disarmament commission to take into account the British-French, Soviet and U.S. proposals, together with any others submitted to the disarmament commission within its terms of reference.

On the other hand, the Western delegates agreed, after reflection, to accept the next most important Soviet amendment. This would eliminate the word "balanced" from a passage in the resolution providing that a disarmament convention should include "the regulation, limitation and major balanced reduction of all armed forces and all armaments," and would make the passage apply only to conventional or non-atomic armaments.

Democrats To Win House and Senate Control, Magazine Poll Indicates

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 (AP)—Look magazine said today a nationwide survey shows Democrats will win control of both House and Senate in the November elections.

The magazine said its survey indicated Democrats will take 21 House seats away from the Republicans, giving them a 236-198 majority, and in the Senate, the Democrats will gain a narrow 48-47 edge.

The magazine predicted the Republicans would lose Senate seats in Kentucky, New Jersey and Nevada where a Republican was named to replace the late Sen. McCarran, and that Democrats would lose their Ohio seat.

The report said Democrats are sure of 17 governorships, and also are "heavy favorites" in Colorado, Michigan, Ohio and Oklahoma, while the Republicans are sure of 10, and favored in Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, South Dakota, Wisconsin, California, Connecticut, Maryland and New York.

The survey, Look said, was based on interviews with more than 60 state political writers, a canvass of 170 state chairmen and national committee members of both parties, polls in scattered states and cities, talks with campaign leaders, and assessment of the outcomes of recent special elections.

East Point Loser Finds He's Winner

A political loser found himself a victorious candidate Monday after it was discovered his opponent lived on the wrong side of a ward boundary.

E. B. Ezelle was named by the East Point Democratic Executive Committee to the committee's Second Ward seat. In the Sept. 8 primary he was defeated for the post by a vote of three to one.

The committee declared Ezelle, of 507 Williams St., East Point, winner after it was discovered that Ray E. Harris, the apparent winner in the Second Ward contest, lives in the First Ward.

Harris said he was under the impression that his residence at 2615 Ben Hill Rd. was in the Second Ward and that he and all his neighbors always had voted in the Second Ward.

Harris said he discovered the mistake when he telephoned East Point light and water Supt. George Sparks on routine business.

Ezelle said he intends to do his best to represent the Second Ward on the committee. He's positive, he says, that he lives in the Second Ward.

"I don't have a thin skin," the radio-television repairman said when he mentioned the heavy vote against him in the primary. "I just keep bouncing back."

Ezelle said he was defeated once before in a race for a seat on the East Point City Council.

Church Bells Toll Goodby For Crump

MEMPHIS, Oct. 18 (AP)—With a massive, solemn funeral, E. H. (Boss) Crump, the last and most colorful of the nation's oldtime big city political bosses, was buried today.

Services for the man who ruled Memphis nearly half a century were held at the Crump home. The crowd filled the downstairs rooms, packed the lawn, jammed the closed-off street outside.

The air was heavy with the fragrance of flowers. They filled the lower rooms, covered the broad, curving stairway, the front portico and lined the spacious lawn.

Harried police officials declined to estimate the constantly shifting crowd or the number of cars in the miles-long funeral cortege.

Dr. Donald Henning, rector of historic Calvary Episcopal Church, read the grave words from the church's Common Book of Prayer. The bells of the church, downtown, tolled in requiem.

Over 200 white-gloved police and firemen guarded traffic along the route to Elmwood Cemetery. Ten motorcycle officers formed the escort.

A company of firemen, at a station on the route, lined the curb at attention as the procession ground slowly past. The bell on a polished hook and ladder truck, nose to the curb, clanged in measured beat.

Crump, a shaggy browed, white-haired millionaire, died of a heart ailment at his home. He was 80. He retained his tight grip on the Memphis-Shelby County Democratic "machine" to the end.

For 20 years the "Crump crowd" controlled Tennessee state politics. But Crump lost much of his statewide influence in the 1948 primary in which Sen. Estes Kefauver and Gordon Browning, who ran for governor, beat the Crump-backed candidates.

Greek Church Books Session at Savannah

SAVANNAH, Oct. 18 (AP)—The 12th National Conference of Clergy and Laity of the Greek Orthodox Archdiocese of North and South America, which last convened in Los Angeles, Calif., in October, 1952, will be held here next week.

Representatives of 347 church communities are expected to attend, representing the estimated 1,000,000 Americans of Greek Orthodox faith. At the same time the Greek Orthodox Ladies' Charities, a national organization of the here. The Congress headquarters will be at the Hotel General Oglethorpe on nearby Wilmington Island.

Agreement Ends Fish Death Suit

JESUP, Oct. 18 (AP)—Damage claims against the Rayonier, Inc., cellulose plant here, have been dropped following the signing of a consent agreement under which the plant will take precautions to prevent any fish-killing pollution of the Altamaha river.

In Atlanta, Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook said signing of the consent agreement followed a series of meetings with all parties concerned and with experts in the field of water pollution.

"At no point in our investigations and conferences were we able to determine exactly who or what was responsible for the mass killing of fish," Cooke said.

Three fishing groups and the state and the defendant corporation agreed to terms of the decree which was signed by Judge Douglas Thomas.

The fishing groups filed damage claims after a Sept. 10-12 fish kill lined the banks of the river for miles with dead fish. Under the agreement, the three groups will pay their own court costs.

POINTS TO TESTS

Rayonier spokesmen maintained plant tests showed the firm was not at fault but acknowledged plant wastes helped to diminish water oxygen at a time the river was far below normal depth due to drought.

The decree says the plant is using approved waste disposal methods to protect fish life but it ordered the corporation to:

Hold wastes dumped into the Altamaha River to quantities that will not kill fish when diluted with the river; take continuous samples of the wastes before they reach the river and install equipment to analyze them and record the findings.

SAMPLES OF WASTES

Take samples of the wastes by hand twice daily and test them; maintain close control over a lagoon where wastes are allowed to settle before being poured into the river; sample river water once weekly at half a dozen points above and as far as 20 miles below the plant; keep records of the tests available for inspection for four years and furnish them weekly to the State Game and Fish Commission.

Janitor, 76, Woman Slain On Alabama Lovers' Lane

ANDALUSIA, Ala., Oct. 18 (AP)—The partially clad bodies of a 76-year-old father of six and a 45-year-old mother of eight were found on a lovers' lane here today, Covington County Sheriff Cliff Meredith said.

He identified them as C. R. Mallory, Andalusia, a retired janitor, and Mrs. Velma Howard, wife of Willie Howard, Rt. 1, Red Level. Each had two bullets in the head, Meredith said.

The sheriff said Mallory's body was found slumped in the back seat of a parked car, and Mrs. Howard's body was on the ground nearby. They were discovered by a 14-year-old Negro boy on his way to school.

The road just inside the city limits was described as a popular parking place for lovers.

Meredith said either t .22-caliber pistol or rifle was used in the shootings, and that a .22 cartridge was found nearby.

Mallory and Mrs. Howard were last seen Saturday afternoon, when three of Mrs. Howard's children, all under 10, were abandoned in a theater here, Meredith said, and an intensive search for the two had been conducted since then.

The officer said the possibility of a double suicide had been ruled out. He said he believed the shootings occurred sometime Saturday afternoon.

Helping in the investigation are Andalusia Police Chief John Hammack, State Investigator Oscar F. Coley and State Toxicologist Wendell L. Sowell of Auburn.

HELD IN KILLING
Mrs. Ruth Ann Newton

Pray! Wife Cries Before Killing Mate

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 18 (AP)—A jealous wife, who said her husband gave her a carnation last Christmas but bought two orchids for a waitress, shot and killed him early today.

Patrolman Don Edwards said Mrs. Ruth Ann Newton, 48, admitted killing John F. Newton, 50, with a shotgun outside their tavern, Ye Olde Friendly Inn, after telling him to pray.

Mrs. Newton was charged with murder.

Edwards said Mrs. Newton told him she intended to kill the waitress, too. However, she is convalescing from an abdominal operation and could not pursue the woman.

The waitress, Mrs. Mildred Lee Woolum, 31, ducked behind Newton's car as Mrs. Newton fired at him from the porch of their home, which adjoins the tavern.

Newton had been preparing to take Mrs. Woolum, a divorcee employed by him, to her home after closing the tavern.

Edwards gave this version of the shooting:

Newton had started to the garage when Mrs. Newton called from the house:

"Come back here!"

Newton turned and saw his wife with the shotgun.

"Don't do that," he cried.

"You're going to have to pray," Mrs. Newton replied. "I'm going to kill you, you S.O.B."

Then a blast from the shotgun cut him down.

Mrs. Newton then called out to Mrs. Woolum, cowering behind Newton's car:

"Come on out of there. I'm going to kill you, too."

But Mrs. Woolum, mother of three children, kept hiding until police arrived. She denied receiving any gifts from Newton.

RECORD REVIEWS

Latest Hi-Fi Test Disc One of Best

"AN ADVENTURE IN HIGH FIDELITY"—RCA-Victor.

This high fidelity demonstration record ranks with Capitol's as the best of the lot. Robert Russell Bennett has composed "Adventure in High Fidelity" especially for this release and though one may suspect that he wrote it while listening to Toscanini's recording of Respighi's "Pines" going full-blast, this piece is really a hi-fi treat. The disc also includes tones of all ranges, human voices (including Bjoerling, Peters, de Los Angeles), and popular numbers, one of which is Sauter-Finegan's terrific "Eddie and the Witch Doctor." The notes by Robert Darrell are well done. This disk is for both old hi-fi enthusiasts and people who are interested in finding out what high fidelity is all about—T. M.

"ECHOES OF SPAIN" performed by the Hollywood Bowl Symphony Orchestra conducted by Carmen Dragon. (Capitol.)

These eight selections include Ritual Fire Dance, Jalousie, Malaguena, and Estrellita. The Hollywood Bowl Orchestra has never played better and Capitol engineers have never given a better account of themselves. Need more be said?—T. M.

Aldermen Salute Gilliam And Bride, Censor Smith

The marriage of Miss Christine Smith, Atlanta's movie censor, to Alderman Ed A. Gilliam inspired a special resolution from the Atlanta aldermanic board Monday.

The resolution, introduced by John A. White, congratulated Gilliam and his bride, who were married Saturday in a quiet ceremony at Glenn Memorial Chapel, Emory.

It dubbed Gilliam "formerly the most notorious bachelor in Atlanta's official family" and wished the newlyweds "long, happy and useful lives."

Mrs. Gilliam, 44, has been motion picture censor for the public library board for the past 10 years. Gilliam, 54, has been a member of the city's governing board since 1928.

The wedding was solemnized by the Rev. Warren Candler Budd in the presence of the couple's families and close friends, which included prominent city officials.

Police Chief Herbert T. Jenkins and Police Capt. E. O. Mullen, who work with Gilliam in his capacity as chairman of the city police committee, served as ushers.

The couple is now honeymooning in Havana. When they return they will live in Gilliam's newly remodeled house at 30 Rogers Ave., SE.

Mrs. Gilliam is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Edward Smith of Shreveport, La. She is a graduate of Agnes Scott College and was secretary of the Atlanta League of Women Voters before she was appointed movie censor.

Gilliam was graduated with honors from Emory University in 1923 and was later graduated from Emory's law school.

Dr. Garland G. Smith gave his sister in marriage and Misses Suzanne and Nancy Smith were their aunt's only attendents. Elijah Brown Jr. was best man.

Sears Purchases $94 Million of State's Products

More than $94 million in merchandise manufactured in Georgia was purchased last year by Sears, Roebuck & Co., V. W. Milton, general manager of Sears' Atlanta retail stores, said here Monday.

Made-in-Georgia merchandise is being featured in Sears stores here as 250 retail stores and order offices stage the fifth annual Dixie Progress Celebration.

Purpose of the annual event, Milton pointed out, is "to pay tribute to the South's rapidly expanding importance as manufacturer of products the whole world uses."

More than 162 Georgia firms in 63 towns and cities shared in sales of state-produced merchandise to Sears in 1953, Milton said. More than 50 of the firms are located in the Atlanta area, he added.

Powell Is Charged With Contempt After 'Clam-Up' on Housing Quiz

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (AP)—A federal grand jury ran out of patience today and charged ousted federal housing official Clyde L. Powell with criminal contempt of court for refusing to answer questions.

The jury, which is invesitgating alleged multi-million dollar housing scandals, filed a presentment against Powell with Federal Judge F. Dickinson Letts.

Letts, who repeatedly had ordered Powell to answer the jury's questions, set trial on the contempt charge for Wednesday morning.

If Powell is convicted, the penalty will be up to the judge. Powell could be fined and jailed but there is no maximum or minimum penalty set by law.

The former assistant federal housing administrator also has refused to answer questions of the Senate Banking Committee, which has spent several months delving into the housing situation.

The grand jury charged specifically that Powell refused to say whether he took the official diaries of his office for the years 1946-54 with him when he was fired earlier this year.

The contempt presentment is a device a jury uses to note an alleged unlawful situation without actually handing up a bill of particulars and charges as in an indictment.

The jury has been looking into allegations that Powell, as head of the FHA's apartment loan program, accepted loans or favors from builders who made "windfall" profits on government-insured mortgages.

According to the banking committee, he deposited more than $100,000 in excess of his government salary between the end of World War II and 1949.

Grant Review In Williams Death Case

The Georgia Supreme Court has agreed to review conviction of a Negro sentenced to die in the electric chair for the fatal shooting of Harry Furst, an Atlanta liquor store clerk.

Aubry Williams, the Negro, was convicted March 10, 1953, in Fulton Superior Court. His appeal contended there was discrimination in the selection of the trial jury because names of the prospective white jurors were placed on white paper slips and names of prospective Negro jurors were put on yellow paper slips.

Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook of Georgia, in a brief, asked the Supreme Court to deny a hearing to Williams. The brief said that under Georgia laws objections to the selection of trial jurors should have been made by Williams' lawyer before the trial began.

The brief said four Negroes were on the jury panel and that three were disqualified for cause and the state peremptorily challenged the fourth.

A Rhyme a Day

"The privilege of citizenship imposes the debt of creating a home that will be a strong unit in the nation."—Article quote.

Each man has a mission, regardless of birth . . . the humblest are often the "salt of the earth" . . . and those who are talented shouldn't forget . . . the day they are born they are buried in debt.

The doctor, of course, must be handed his fee . . . hospitals and nurses and drugs are not for free . . . and, later in life, each will hear parents say . . . "you owe us a debt you can never repay."

When a fellow is married, his mission in life . . . should be to provide for his children and wife . . . remembering, too, that the home is the hub . . . of the whole universe, that the lodge or the club . . . or the churches or schools, or the courts or the jails . . . can't alter what's done when this small unit fails.

Few people arrive with a talent so great . . . they can do much while here or devise an estate . . . but each, in his place, can do something worth-while . . . and you don't have to go to a cannibal isle.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 no trmp.	Pass	Pass	2 diams.
Pass	2 no tp.	Pass	3 no tp.
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Jack of clubs.

Two enterprising declarers met with different fates on the hand shown today, played in a team of four match.

East opened with one no trump. South and West passed, and North reopened the bidding with two diamonds. East properly took no action, inasmuch as he had already announced that he had 16, 17, or 18 points, and any further activity should come from partner. A better result would have been obtained by North had he chosen to double instead of bidding two diamonds, for South would have left it in for a good sized penalty. But North was not inclined to double with only 11 points in high cards. It should be pointed out, however, that a double to reopen the bidding when it has been passed out at the one level need not be based on the same values required for an immediate double.

South's bid of two no trump is rather on the aggressive side, since North's action was of a mild nature. But South felt that he had the advantage of position in hearts and clubs. North went on to three no trump and East, taking it as an affront, registered a brisk double. The bidding had followed exactly the same lines at both tables.

The jack of clubs was opened. East won with the ace and at Table One returned the suit. South won and drove out the ace of diamonds which virtually assured him of nine tricks — four diamonds, two clubs, two hearts, and a spade.

At the other table East, upon winning the ace of clubs, recognized the futility of continuing the attack in clubs. The bidding and opening lead made it clear that South had both the king and queen of clubs and that West could have no entry to cash any club tricks which might become established.

The one hope of defense rested with shutting out dummy's diamond suit. The king and queen of spades provided a second round entry to dummy. If declarer had only two spades the entry could be destroyed by playing the ace and another spade, but this was too much to hope for. It was more likely that South would have two or three small diamonds, the suit his partner had bid. However, after a bit of deliberation, East hit upon the play which would kill the entry regardless of declarer's holding.

Observe that the eight of spades would not do it, for declarer might have the 10 of spades which he would surely put up to hold the trick. The sure-fire play was the jack of spades, which put an end to declarer's hopes. At best, he could now take two clubs, three hearts, two spades and one diamond.

And how will East know to take the second lead of diamonds? Very simply, his partner will tell him by first playing the deuce and then the seven, marking him with three diamonds and the declarer with only two.

Here's Gentle, Natural-Like Relief of Constipation for All Members of Your Family

Stop Taking Harsh Drugs or Giving Them to Your Children . . . Get Truly Satisfying Relief This Pleasant Vegetable Laxative Way!

For temporary constipation, medical authorities agree that you and your children need gentle relief. And here's the "all-family" laxative that gives it to you—Dr. Caldwell's Senna Laxative contained in Syrup Pepsin.

Dr. Caldwell's relieves temporary constipation gently but surely for young and old alike . . . restores that wonderful feeling of well-being overnight . . . and does it without salts, without harsh drugs that cramp and gripe and disrupt normal bowel action!

Dr. Caldwell's contains an extract of Senna, one of the finest natural vegetable laxatives known to medicine. Won't upset even a small child. Gives you or your children comfortable, satisfying, natural-like relief of temporary constipation. Helps you get "on schedule" without repeated doses. And even relieves stomach sourness that constipation often brings.

Children enjoy taking Dr. Caldwell's—it tastes so good! And because it is a liquid, you can regulate dosage exactly to suit anyone's needs.

Why buy several preparations when this one gentle laxative meets your whole family's needs? Get Dr. Caldwell's today—there's a size to suit every family's need.

Better For You, Your Children, Older Folks, Too!

Many harsh drugs cause digestive upset in the stomach. Dr. Caldwell's is different. Its extract of Senna acts chiefly in the lower bowel where you need help, and gently promotes the comfortable relief you and your family want.

MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE

Buy Dr. Caldwell's Senna Laxative. Try it. If you are not completely satisfied with the gentle, natural-like relief it gives, we'll refund your purchase price in full. Simply mail the empty bottle to Box 280, New York 18, N. Y.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

The Good Samaritan What Was His Job?

Jennie Crane, 76, is my mother. She is a devout Bible reader and has been a stabilizing moral force wherever she has lived.

She taught us children to read the Bible. I started when I was 7. And I had read the entire Bible clear through 10 times by the time I finished college.

But my mother read it through 72 times before she quit keeping count. She still reads it daily.

So recently I said, "Mom, you've read about the Good Samaritan many times, haven't you?" and she nodded assent.

"All right," I went on, "can you tell me what business or profession the Good Samaritan belonged to?"

She shook her head.

"The Bible doesn't say," she added.

'But I told her the Bible DOES tell us what his profession was, and then I read her the following verses (Luke 10:33-35):

"But a certain Samaritan, as he journeyed, came where he was: and when he saw him, he had compassion on him,

"And went to him, and bound up his wounds, pouring in oil and wine, and set him on his own beast, and brought him to an inn, and took care of him.

"And on the morrow when he departed, he took out two pence, and gave them to the host, and said unto him, Take care of him; and whatsoever thou spendest more, when I come again, I will repay thee."

Suppose I ask you readers of this modern newspaper to look over those three verses once more and see if you can detect the Good Samaritan's profession. What would you say?

Well, I'll tell you what I revealed to my mother to surprise her. And I'd like to add that the Bible will give you new slants on old passages therein, each time you re-read this most famous book.

"Mom," I began, "the Good Samaritan was a traveling salesman, or 'drummer' as they used to call him in past generations."

"How do you know?" she persisted.

"By just one word," I replied. "And that word is 'again.' For who makes a regular territory again and again, month after month? Who would thus be well known to a hotel keeper? It would be a traveling salesman."

My mother nodded her head.

"I never had thought of it in that way," she admitted.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VanDELLEN

Sinuses Begin When Openings Are Plugged

Sinuses are curious little air spaces in the skull. Not all are present at birth but the majority are well developed by the third birthday. The frontal sinuses are scarcely more than hollow spaces above the eyes. The ethmoids are more complex. Located behind the nose, they consist of a cavity honeycombed with thin walled spaces (ethmoid cells).

Sinuses are lined with the same mucous membrane as the nose and the secretions that form drain through the small ducts connecting each sinus with the nasal passageway. Trouble usually begins when the opening is plugged, preventing escape of the secretions.

Many physicians believe that ordinary nose cold is accompanied by a similar blockage in the sinuses. This complication is masked by the irritation, discharge, and stuffiness so typical of nasal infection.

After the nasal disorder has usbsided, the sinus infection may linger. This is more likely to happen when the septum is deviated or the inner lining of the nose is swollen sufficiently to obstruct the sinus ducts. This holds the mucus in the sinus and the retained secretions become infected.

Headache is the most common symptom of a sinus disorder. It generally is worse on arising in the morning. Pain is most severe when the frontal sinuses are involved, especially when the structures are distended with pus. Now and then there is no distress even though a sinus is obstructed. Apparently, pressure is not great enough to stimulate the nerve endings.

Involvement of the ethmoid sinus may produce a sense of fullness between or above the eyes. There may be a continuous nasal discharge, which increases on lying down. When lying on the right side, the right nostril becomes blocked and vice versa. Nasal discharge may affect the throat and lead to soreness, irritation, and cough.

Halitosis often is traceable to sinusitis. When one or more roots of the upper teeth become abscessed and the infection erodes into the maxillary sinus, the breath becomes unusually foul.

Some forms of sinusitis are diagnosed with a special light but X-ray is more reliable and accurate. Treatment is more or less stereotyped and includes measures that promote drainage and kill the causative germs. When allergy is responsible, more detailed studies may be needed to determine and eliminate the irritant before cure can be expected.

Joe's new clips have cut down the time of attaching the plastic to four minutes, Ambrose.
Just a moment, Walt.
Oh, Hell-O! Of course I'm not too busy... So do I... What time?.. I'll pick you up.
It was Pat, Walt. She's invited me to a cocktail party!

Now what were you saying about clipping the plastic to the minutes?

Sometimes it takes a man to put you wise to cleaner, brighter washing!

More than 11,000 servicemen are telling washer owners to use all. They know from experience why all is prescribed for finest washings by the machine makers. They know how "controlled suds" prevent the washer troubles thick suds cause.

all washes almost without suds. And that is good, in two ways:—

First—old-fashioned sticky suds are really bad for your wash. They smother the tumbling action of the things in your wash; hinder the flow of water and detergent through the fabrics.

And in rinsing, those soiled suds cling to your clothes and actually redeposit the same dirt in them.

Second—thick, sticky suds are bad for your washer. Men who service automatic washers blame "too much suds" for 4 out of 5 of their service calls. (Somebody has to pay for those calls!)

all's "controlled suds" let your washer work the way it's meant to. You paid for bright, sweet, super-clean washings—and trouble-free service. all will help your washer deliver exactly those things.

"Controlled suds" wash, rinse better all stays down in the water where the clothes are. It goes to work there, dissolving the dirt out of your things—without making millions of bubbles that do nothing useful but may threaten damage to your automatic.

And all's "controlled suds" flush out immediately with the rinse water. There's no possibility of a sticky suds film clinging to the clothes to get them dull and dirty all over again.

Forget the suds superstition

Your grandmother may have told you suds are a sign "the soap is working." But that was before all was invented.

Truth is that suds themselves have absolutely no cleansing power. None whatever, as every home economist knows.

Now millions of women know it, too—women who wash with all. They profit from this new-day "controlled suds" way of laundering—in brighter, whiter, sweeter smelling washes. In cleaner clothes that stay clean longer.

Let all prove itself to you

A trial will convince you. Try the best of all the others. Then try all. Try it on all your clothes, from the grimiest work clothes to filmiest lingerie.

We guarantee you'll see for yourself a big difference in the look and feel and smell of freshness; in extra whiteness; in extra time your washed things stay clean . . . or you can have your money back.

Try out both types of all

So put all on your shopping list. At your grocer's you'll find two kinds of all. In the blue box, CONDENSED—favorite of millions. In the red box, EXTRA FLUFFY for use in your automatic, also for kitchen use and basin-washing of stockings and lingerie. The red box weighs and costs one-third as much as CONDENSED all in the blue box. Monsanto Chemical Company, St. Louis, Missouri.
